7-Cent Letter Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen who should know say President Nixon's request for a seven-cent rate on first-class mail is not likely to be approved this year—and some say it may not be accepted at all.

"That isn't absolute," said Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Post Office Committee, "but if I were a speculator, I wouldn't run out buying any seven-cent stamps."

On the House side, Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., of the postal operations subcommittee says a major overhaul of the nation's postal system should precede any rate increase.

"The (Post Office) Department seems to have its priorities mixed," Dulski said in a recent floor speech. "Postal reform must come first and then we can consider postal rate increases, if necessary."

That would preclude congressional approval of Nixon's request to raise postal rates by next July 1—although Dulski hopes to have postal reform ready for a House vote soon after that.

Another House committee source said he sees little chance for a postal rate increase this year or next—unless it is tied on "a good, solid postal reform bill."

But McGee said he sees little support for a postal increase any time soon even with postal overhaul.

"We just gave them a one-cent increase a year ago," he said in an interview. "If we raise it again this year we might be setting a precedent for raising it a penny every year."

The administration says postal rates must be increased to meet a $1.2-billion postal deficit—or at least a $500-million deficit beyond standard "public service" subsidization of postal operations.

But both McGee and Dulski say the government should pay the public service's full deficit and that the postal system should be modernized to cut that deficit down.

"Another thing many of us reject is the contention that the post office has to run in the black," McGee said. "Why single out the Post Office Department? Why not the State Department? Or Defense or Agriculture? They're all public agencies."

might be setting a precedent for raising it a penny every year."

Troxell Defends Highways Department Stand on Rt. 62

Plans for widening Rt. 62 north of Warren appear to be the best under the circumstances, District Highway Engineer William Troxell said Friday.

Commenting on opposition to the proposed right of way for the road, Troxell said opinions to the contrary, not withstanding the state Highways Department, when it makes improvements, tries to keep damages and costs to a minimum.

Opponents to the road presented a petition before the county planning commission Thursday night. Spokesmen Harold Beach and Warren Johnson listed a series of reasons for their opposition including the belief that traffic would not move any more rapidly with the four-lane road, the fact that all the land to be taken for the right of way is to come off the west side of the road and the consequent loss to property owners along the right-of-way.

The emphasis of the dissent centered on the land acquisition by the state which is hindered in obtaining land on the east side of the road by the existence of a 60 foot Penn Central right of way and a single set of tracks.

Troxell indicated that the highway department had not carried on any discussion with the railroad on yielding any or all of its right of way. The department's decision, Troxell said, was based on reports of local agencies and committees. These reports, it appears indicated that the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) would not negotiate with the railroad as long as it served customers along the tracks. The West Penn Oil Co. is apparently the only customer now served by the tracks.

Acquisition of the highway right of way is being held up by the need for PUC action on the railroad grade crossing at North Warren. The PUC must first hold a field viewing and then a hearing. No date has been set for either yet because of a tremendous backlog of PUC cases, Troxell said.

Consider Housing Authority

Formation of a public housing authority is being considered, county commissioner Dr. David Rice reported Friday.

The authority would combine the efforts of Warren Housing Inc., a borough housing authority and the Warren County Redevelopment Authority.

Dr. Rice said the authority would be formed from the three organizations to insure a unity of goals.

The Redevelopment authority set up to handle urban renewal programs, has found itself in housing by virtue of federal legislation which requires that a majority of an area in an urban renewal project be devoted to housing.

Warren Housing Inc. was organized to investigate housing for the elderly.

A public housing authority, Dr. Rice said, would be concerned not only with the elderly but with the housing needs of residents of all ages.

Formation of an authority was recommended by Edward Husted, executive director of the Bradford Redevelopment and Housing Authorities, when he spoke here last week. The borough could get a proposed housing project off the ground with the formation of an authority, Husted said.

Israeli Jets Strike Jordan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six Israeli jets struck inside Jordan Friday and five gun battles raged across the Jordan River cease-fire line, Jordanian military spokesmen said.

On the Suez Canal front, reported Eastern observers reported two Russian-made MIG21 jet fighters, a type used by Egypt, were spotted over Israel's side of the canal during a day of 13 cross-canal shooting incidents on Thursday.

There was no word whether the MIGs made any raids or encountered any Israeli fire.

In Amman, Jordanian military spokesmen said the Israeli jets Friday raided the Jerak area 75 miles south of the Jordanian capital and were driven off by anti-aircraft fire. There was no word on the air raid from Tel Aviv.

Jordan claimed also that five Israeli forces opened fire in Isr artillery and machine gun duels across the cease-fire line, but that there were no Jordanian losses.

Reds Reject President's Peace Proposal

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives sharply criticized President Nixon's eight-point peace plan Friday but Americans noted a slight change in atmosphere and some observers expressed belief that the Vietnam talks may have reached a turning point.

Both the Hanoi and National Liberation Front delegations agreed to continue studying the Nixon proposals.

It was obvious from comments at the 17th full-scale session of the talks that the two sides remained far apart on key issues. But Harold Kaplan, the U.S. delegation spokesman, said the meeting contrasted agreeably with some previous sessions. He described the meeting, which lasted 3 hours and 55 minutes, as "a relatively moderate and lacking in vindictiveness of tone."

"Nothing was categorically rejected," Kaplan said.

The situation is that the Nixon proposals and the 10-point formula of the NLF are now on the table and that the parties are considering both. This is what Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge asked for in formally presenting the Nixon plan.

He appealed to the NLF and Hanoi representatives not "to answer hastily and to think over our proposal just as we are thinking about yours."

After the meeting Lodge told newsmen that "the other side gave every indication they will consider" the Nixon proposals. This was confirmed by North Vietnam's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, and Tran Buu Kiem, NLF representative.

Kiem said: "Certainly we propose to continue the examination of these proposals."

Thuy commented: "It goes without saying that we will continue to make other remarks on Mr. Nixon's speech at later meetings."

Both, however, strongly criticized key points of the Nixon plan—especially the proposal for mutual withdrawal of U.S. and other outside troops from South Vietnam in 12 months—and pressed for the NLF plan.

Thuy's remarks were sharp at times. He charged that the Nixon proposals tried to camouflage what he called the American intention to continue aggression in Vietnam. He called the troop withdrawal proposal "perfidious" and "absurd" and said he had repeatedly rejected it.

He chided Nixon for his insistence that the South Vietnamese people should have the right to determine their own destiny.

"The truth is," he said, "that for the past 15 years the government of the United States has never ceased to trample under foot the right of the South Vietnamese population to self-determination."

Peru Seizes U.S. Boat; Retaliation is Demanded

LIMA (AP) — Peru, enforcing its claim to 200-mile national waters, seized another American tuna boat Friday and forced the skipper to pay $15,000 in fines and fees. U.S. congressmen in Washington demanded retaliation.

A Peruvian torpedo boat seized the tuna clipper Western King 25 miles from Peru's Pacific coast. It was the third U.S. boat seized this year in the rich fishing waters. A fourth vessel was shot up by a pursuing Peruvian craft in February, but got away.

U.S. Embassy sources in Lima said the captain of the Western King, Nick Titantic, paid $500 for a Peruvian license and about $10,000 in fines before his boat was released at the port of Talara, northwest of Lima.

The boat is owned by Peter Pan Caribe Inc. of Seattle, Wash.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said the Western King was captured by the motor torpedo boat Velarde. It gave no details.

The incident put a further strain on U.S.-Peru relations already damaged by the seizure of U.S.-owned oil property in Peru last October. U.S. congressmen reacted angrily.

An official State Department protest is expected next week. Peru's claim to jurisdiction 200 miles offshore and U.S. recognition of only 12 mile territorial limits are behind the three seizures this year.

Roosevelt Stabbed In 'Quarrel'

GENEVA (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt's oldest son, James, was stabbed in the back at his villa here in what Swiss police described Friday as a "family quarrel."

The 61-year-old executive and former diplomat was rushed in a police ambulance to a hospital where he was resting comfortably following emergency surgery.

His wife, Gladys, 47, was taken to a psychiatric clinic after the Thursday night incident.

No charges were preferred. "At this time, it is a medical case," commented a police official who declined to identify the assailant.

The incident came a week after divorce proceedings, initiated by the balding, bespectacled Roosevelt, started before a Geneva court.

A violent argument at the villa in suburban Venezia preceded the stabbing, one hour before midnight, police said.

High Officials Back Judicial Ballot Question

HARRISBURG (AP) — Two high state officials made a bipartisan plea Friday for Pennsylvania voters to approve the judicial selection proposal which will appear on Tuesday's primary election ballot.

Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, a Republican and Aud. Gen. Robert P. Casey, Democrat, said the proposed new method of picking state judges would "go a long way toward assuring the quality of justice in our state courts."

"The new plan will make it possible for Supreme, Superior and Commonwealth court judges to be selected on merit and ability," the two said in a joint statement released by the Committee for a Yes Vote.

"It is far superior to our present method (of partisan balancing)," said Broderick and Casey.

Earlier, the proposal won the endorsement of the Pennsylvania Medical Society.

Tax Reform Bill Shows Little Relief for Average Taxpayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average middle-income taxpayer will get little or no pocket-book relief from the tax reform bill shaping up in Congress.

This is the opinion of those guiding the House Ways and Means Committee's executive sessions.

A substantial number of House members insist, however, that enough loopholes could be plugged to provide some tax relief generally—or at least to end the income surtax earlier than mid-1970. But even if they are right, there is no present indication they have the votes to prevail.

This year's tax bill, as envisioned by congressmen like chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D. Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the senior Republican member, will eliminate or shrink some of the fancier tax shelters used by corporations and individuals in the upper brackets.

At the other end of the scale, it will relieve of all income tax some 2 million families at or below the poverty line and afford lesser relief for many more close to the line.

The taxpayer in the middle will fare about as he does now. His best bet for relief is that Congress may be able to eliminate the income tax surcharge no later than July 1, 1970, as President Nixon hopes.

The middle taxpayer's long-range hopes, in Mills's opinion, ride on the prospect that the economy will grow at such a pace that government revenues, outstripping added government spending, will make a general tax cut possible. Mills uses this argument in insisting on ceilings on federal spending.

The great unpredictable factor in all such calculations, of course, is the Vietnam war.

So far, the Ways and Means Committee has agreed, subject to later review, on:

—Stricter regulation of foundations and a tax on their investment income.

—Phasing out the unlimited charitable contribution privilege used by some wealthy persons to donate property at little or no cost to them.

—Curbs on the special tax treatment of farm outlays so as to prevent shrewd investors in agricultural enterprises from converting income into lower taxed capital gains.

On some other issues, not yet reached in the formal closed-door discussions, the committee's opinion is becoming clear.

It seems likely to approve:

—Something close to Nixon's proposal for relief of poverty-level income taxpayers.

—Repeal of the 7 per cent investment credit by which businesses recoup some of their equipment investment.

—Something yet to be determined in the field of the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance and related provisions.

FIRE CALLS

Warren firefighters were called to the Loblaw Store, Market and Water sts., at 7:07 p.m. Friday when a fire broke out in the incinerator room, outside the incinerator. Firemen remained on the scene until 7:32 p.m., using a booster line to wet down the burning trash.

Store officials told the fire department there was no loss from damages as all burning material had been scheduled to be burned anyway.

Soviet Spaceship Completes 130-Day Flight to Venus

MOSCOW (AP)—The unmanned Soviet spaceship Venus 5 completed a 130-day flight to Venus Friday but apparently failed to reach the planet's torrid surface with transmitters still operating.

An official announcement said the space ship's instrument capsule made a slow descent by parachute through the atmosphere and sent messages back to earth for 53 minutes. But it did not claim that the capsule landed with instruments still working.

Soviet scientists apparently were being cautious about repeating claims made for Venus 4 on Oct. 16, 1967. At that time they said the space ship had made a soft landing and had transmitted information for 96 minutes until it reached the surface.

IN PRIMARY ELECTION

Rouse Residents Vote Friday

Tuesday is primary day for most Pennsylvanians but residents of the Rouse Home and numerous other public institutions across the state did their voting Friday.

Absentee ballots were cast by 14 persons at the Rouse Home under the supervision of county commissioners Dr. David Rice, Thomas Donnelly and Blain Mead.

The pre-primary on the Friday before primary day is provided for in legislation which took effect this year. The law regulating absentee voting procedures at public institutions resulted from criticism and charges of unbridled politicking at institutions in the past.

Under the law representatives chosen by the respective heads of the county's political parties went together to the home to find applicants for absentee ballots. Ballots were mailed to applicants by the board of elections. The law states that the actual voting is to be supervised by three persons—one selected by each of the members of the board of elections. In Warren the commissioners who also comprise the board of elections each chose themselves.

The ballots cast at the Rouse Home have been locked up and will be distributed to the precincts in which the voters are registered on Tuesday for inclusion in the vote count of those precincts.

Area Man Hurt in Crash

Richard Cochran, 21, of Marlenville, remained in serious condition at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, N.J., from injuries sustained in a crash on Route 130 near Robbinsville, N.J., on Tuesday, in which two men were killed and two others were injured critically.

Cochran, the son of Elma and Charles Cochran of Gilfoyle, south of Marlenville on Rt. 66, was recently discharged from the Air Force and had been stationed at McGuire Air Force Base at Trenton. Following the discharge he took a job with General Electric at Trenton.

According to Mrs. Cochran, her son, in company with the driver, Joseph M. Hewston, 21, of Oil City, a service friend and Raymond Chappel, 20, of Trenton, had volunteered to take two other men with whom they were acquainted to a designation not known. It was on the way there that the car swerved off the highway, struck a telephone pole and then slammed into a tree.

Edward Havens, 22, of Bordentown, N.J., has been identified by police as one of the fatalities, but they have not yet identified the other victim, a man in his 20s.

Hewston and Chappel remained in critical condition in the hospital. Mrs. Cochran said that her husband was on vacation in Canada and an effort was being made to contact him. She planned to visit her son over the weekend.

Area Feels Teacher Unrest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Teachers boycotted classes at Connelville, but others returned to the job at Sharon Friday as school teacher unrest continued to plague Western Pennsylvania.

Officials cancelled classes at Connelville after 375 teachers failed to show for the start of the school day. Nearly 9,000 pupils were idled by the walk-out.

The teachers boycotted classes after four meetings with the board and a state mediator proved fruitless. They had threatened to walk out two weeks ago, but stayed on the job while negotiations with the mediator continued.

The teachers are seeking a starting salary of $6,700, and the school board is offering $6,300.

Another walkout at Sharon ended after four days when teachers returned to the classroom after the school board agreed to meet with them.

The teachers walked out Monday when the board said it would not meet with the teachers.

A strike at Freeport, Armstrong County, continued into its second day, giving 2,600 pupils a free day. No meetings were set to try to end the walk-out.

Suspect Arson In Area Fires

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — Fire that authorities say they believe was set caused $20,000 damage to the Free Methodist Church in Tuna Crossing Friday just two weeks after it opened for services.

The possibility of arson was strong, said firemen, because the blaze was confined to the sanctuary and there was an odor of gasoline in the damaged portion.

The fire was the second in a week that authorities said was set. A blaze that caused $299,000 damage to a furniture store in Bradford Monday was said to be the work of an arsonist.

Volunteers from the congregation began building the church two years ago. Services were being held in a basement recreation room while the finishing touches were being completed in the church.

Continue Probe Of Fatal Mishap

Borough police reported Friday they are still investigating the accident Thursday night that claimed the life of Mrs. Margaret Mullen, 64, 2 Cottage pl.

The driver of the auto which struck Mrs. Mullen as she crossed Market st. at Fourth ave. was identified as James Stanko, 25, 1142 Jackson Run rd.

Coroner Dr. Ronald Simonsen said death was caused by multiple extreme injuries and fractures.

Advisory Group Meets Tuesday

The Citizens Advisory Committee will discuss the Warren housing program and re-certification of Warren for receiving funds for housing and urban development at a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the municipal building.

The committee will hear reports on action taken on future usage of the Warren Airport property, beautification of the downtown business district, Phase I of urban renewal and enlargement of the committee.

United Fund Honors Three For Many Years of Service

James H. Frantz, Andrew J. Donick, and Edward A. Ryberg, long-time volunteer workers for the United Fund of Warren County, were honored Friday noon when they received the UF distinguished service awards at a Thank You Day luncheon in the Woman's Club.

Also receiving special recognition was Miss Dorothy Belknap who served as bookkeeper for the Community Chest and the United Fund for the past twenty-seven years. Miss Belknap received a bouquet of flowers from UF president C. L. Christensen.

B. W. Knapp, in making the awards to the three men, pointed out their long years of service to the UF. Frantz, United Refining Company executive, has been a member of the UF board of directors since 1950 and has also served as a vice president and chairman of the professional division.

Donick, manager of the Bureau of Employment Security, has been a director since 1961, has served as a vice president and for many years has been chairman of the public service division in the annual campaign.

Stephenson Named Red Cross First Aid Head

Jack Brown, chairman of the Warren County Chapter, American Red Cross, announces the appointment of Walter H. Stephenson as first aid chairman, effective May 19. He fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Eugene B. Brown.

Stephenson is in charge of safety at National Forge Company, Irvine. Before joining National Forge in 1963, he was assistant safety engineer for Weyerhaeuser Company, Coos Bay, Oregon.

A veteran of World War II, he served with the Army Medical Corps from 1941 to 1944, attaining the rank of first sergeant. Stephenson has been a first aid instructor, a volunteer post, for the American Red Cross, for the past 20 years, in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, and Oregon. For 12 years he was first aid chairman for the Red Cross at Coos Bay.

Stephenson and his wife make their home in Youngsville.

The Gross Cemetery Association plans to hold its annual meeting on Wednesday evening, May 21 at 8:30. It will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Schuler in the New Holly Apartments on Conewango ave. ext. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

JOHNSON LISTS PERSONAL HOLDINGS

State Representatives Report Income

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven of Pennsylvania's 27 U. S. representatives report they have no outside income or invested wealth that comes under the rules requiring reporting to the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct.

Committee files show all 11 wrote "none" after questions asking their stockholdings, capital gains positions with companies and ownership of firms.

The income reporting rules—adopted last year—required only that members list those positions and sources of income from which they derived in excess of $1,000 or which had a fair market value of $5,000 last year.

The 11 Representatives and their parties were William A. Barrett, D.; Robert N. C. Nix, D.; James A. Byrne, D.; William J. Green, D.; Lawrence G. Williams, R.; Daniel J. Flood, D.; J. Irving Whalley, R.; Joseph P. Vigorito, D.; Edwin D. Eshleman, R.; Herman T. Schneebeli, R.; and Robert J. Corbett, R.

The report filed by Democrat William S. Moorhead, revealed a substantial number of blue chip stocks. Among his holdings are General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone & Telegraph, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Corning Glass, Radio Corporation of America, Alcoa, Texaco and Eastman Kodak.

Lawrence Coughlin, a Republican, reported having common stocks in Honeywell, Mobil Oil, and Sears Roebuck & Co. among others.

George A. Goodling, also a Republican, listed stock in AT&T, General Motors, Harper Row and Southwest Publishing.

Democrat John Dent reported income from treasury bonds and convertible warrants in Allegheny Airlines and Ozark Airlines, among other sources.

John P. Saylor, a Republican, said he was president of Johnstown, Pa., Federal Savings and Loan with holdings in AT&T, Burroughs Corp. and Independence Lead.

Albert W. Johnson, Republican, listed personal holdings of common stock in Standard Oil Home from Hospital.

Edward (Red) Nasman, 504 1/2 Third ave., Warren, who has been a surgical patient at Hamot Hospital, Erie, has returned home.

of New Jersey and ownership by his wife of U.S. Steel and General Motors debentures or stocks.

Democrat Gus Yatron listed $12,000 in salary and expenses received as a state senator last year.

Joseph M. Gaydos, a Democrat, reported "salary and expenses as Pa. State Senator" but did not say how much, and also listed his law partnership at McKeesport.

Republican James G. Fulton listed, under income for services rendered exceeding $5,000: Pennsylvania Drilling Co.

Others who listed stock holdings or legal or medical practices as sources of income were: Frank M. Clark, D.; Thomas E. Morgan, D.; Fred B. Rooney, D.; Joseph M. McDade, R.; G. Robert Watkins, R.; Edward G. Blester Jr., R.; and Joshua Ellberg, D.

The Readers Speak On the Primary Election

May 14, 1969

Dear Sir:

A recent political advertisement appeared in your newspaper in which reference was made to a poll of attorneys. I was not among the attorneys who were polled and hence I would like to make my views known at this time.

I accepted an appointment as District Attorney in early January of this year with the understanding that I would serve for the balance of 1969 only. Prior to the appointment, I had served as Assistant D.A. for approximately one and one-half years. As District Attorney, my office processes all of the criminal cases which come before the court and hence I spend more time in court than any other lawyer practicing in the 37th Judicial District.

It is my opinion that the morale of the law enforcement officers with whom I go to court, including the State Troopers, the Borough and Township Police, and the men in the Sheriff's Department, has never been higher than at the present time. This is because the officers realize that they are receiving the attention of Judge Bonavita, and they further recognize that the persons who have been charged by them will receive fair but fair treatment from the court. I emphasize the word "fair"; proof of the court's fairness is found in the number of criminal cases which I as the prosecutor have lost.

I support the nomination of Judge Samuel F. Bonavita because he has shown that he is a competent judge.

Yours sincerely,
H. Robert Hampson
District Attorney

Dear Sir:

I am writing in reply to several citizens who undertook to write letters to the Editor in attempts to discredit the statements contained in the brochure which the Committee for continuing Judge Bonavita as Judge of Warren and Forest Counties has recently mailed to the electorate.

I have personally read the letter which Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. sent to Governor Shafer, dated October 14, 1968, wherein he gave "a favorable opinion on the judicial qualifications of Judge Bonavita." In addition, Judge Flick wrote, "the (Judge Bonavita) has been capable and fearless as a prosecutor and I appreciate the manner in which he has fulfilled his duties."

The New Faces of Racism

For those who keep track of legal and extra-legal comings and goings in the practice and theory of racism, here are three interesting incidents.

1) In Chicago a United States District Court judge counseled a convicted Negro who had participated in a mail fraud scheme and got caught at it, to avoid, especially, a career in such crime, as, distinctively, the judge's point, one gathers, is that there is an expertise in crime, and it takes a good long time for Negroes to become educated in the high Caucasian arts of, e.g., bank robbing, swindling, counterfeiting—that sort of thing.

The judge is on solid grounds, provided he is not assumed to be saying something which is racially invidious. In other words, according to existing canons, it is okay to say to the Negro: don't try to counterfeits money, because to do so requires skills in engraving and miniaturization which the white man, through exclusionist union and educational policies, has husbanded to his own. But it is not okay to suggest—and of course there is danger that the innocent Negro's mind will stray in that direction—that the Negro has to wait before he can aspire to the high criminal mentality of the white man.

There are those who make just that point explicitly—Elijah

Muhammad, for instance, the Black Muslim leader who says that white men are biologically inclined to kill and to exploit. One must assume that the judge meant no such thing, even if one wonders at the questionable prudence of the advice he gave. Surely if a young Negro is disposed to rob a bank, better he should attempt to do so while unskilled enough to fail at it, than when skilled enough to succeed?

2) At Cornell, a few white students were picked up and arrested during the general upheaval that focussed on the occupation of a building by Negro militants armed with rifles and shotguns and the interruption of the ROTC. The lawyers—the honkies' lawyers—have come up, in behalf of their clients, with a most interesting complaint, namely that it is a violation of the equal provisions of the law either to prosecute, or to fail to prosecute, by reference to race color or creed. In other words, it is a form of racism—the lawyers are ineffectual contending—to refuse to prosecute the black militants merely because they are black, while prosecuting whites. Yet another burden of the (manifestly) overburdened Mr. Perkins, the forlorn president of the University of Anarchy, on the banks of old Cayuga.

And 3), and most interesting of all, the decision of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare concerning the segregationist policies of the black Last winter, an irate Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced that he would go right back to court to challenge black-inspired compulsory segregation, just as he had tackled white folks in years gone by.

Along comes a federal official who authorizes the exclusion of white students from the all-black arrangements at Antioch on the following grounds, all ye sophists take note. You see, says the judge, white people aren't being excluded because they're white—that indeed would be unconstitutional—but because they do not have the relevant background, namely blackness.

Imagine, for a minute, what a judge would do if a white group excluded blacks not because they are black, for heaven's sake, but because they don't share the background experience of being white. Get it? Well, the chances are that His Honor is in for a great big official rebuke from the higher court.

Still, it is interesting how mixed up you get when you harness the law so as to make it do what people aren't inclined to do, black or white. It cannot be long, at this rate, before it becomes a totally mystifying question which is the pro-black thing to advocate—the racist, or the anti-racist, proposal.

Reader Speaks

Dear Sir:

The untimely death of Mrs. Mullen, who was killed while crossing Market street Thursday night, is further evidence that Route 62 should not go through where small children will be crossing this proposed modern highway daily. Anyone helping to put through this super highway is committing a criminal offense.

Mrs. R. Z. Morrison

Multiple Use Of Land

The phrase "multiple use," like the word conservation, has been bandied about so much lately that it has lost some of its original meaning. The multiple use concept had its genesis as far back as 1905, when Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, in a letter to Gifford Pinchot, Chief of the U. S. Forest Service, urged that "Where conflicting interests must be reconciled, the question will always be decided from the standpoint of the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run." "The Greatest Good" principle is still basic in multiple use management of national forest land.

Multiple use is both the simplest and most complex of approaches to the conservation of natural resources. It means having an over-all plan which assures the most effective use of each resource with other uses. Multiple use, like conservation, implies "wise use."

The U. S. Forest Service had been practicing a form of multiple use on the national forests since 1905, when the forest reserves became national forests. But it was not until June 12, 1960, when the Multiple Use—Sustained Yield Act was passed, that legal status was given to this concept of management. From that time on "multiple use" has become a household phrase among conservationists. In recent years most of the big lumber and pulpwood companies have adopted the multiple use principle of management for their holdings.

The exact wording of the Multiple Use—Sustained Yield Act is rather involved, but it does plainly state that "the national forests are established and shall be administered for outdoor recreation, range, timber, watershed, and wildlife and fish purposes."

Another important section of the Act states that "The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized and directed to develop and administer the renewable surface resources of the national forests for multiple use and sustained yield of the several products and services obtained therefrom."

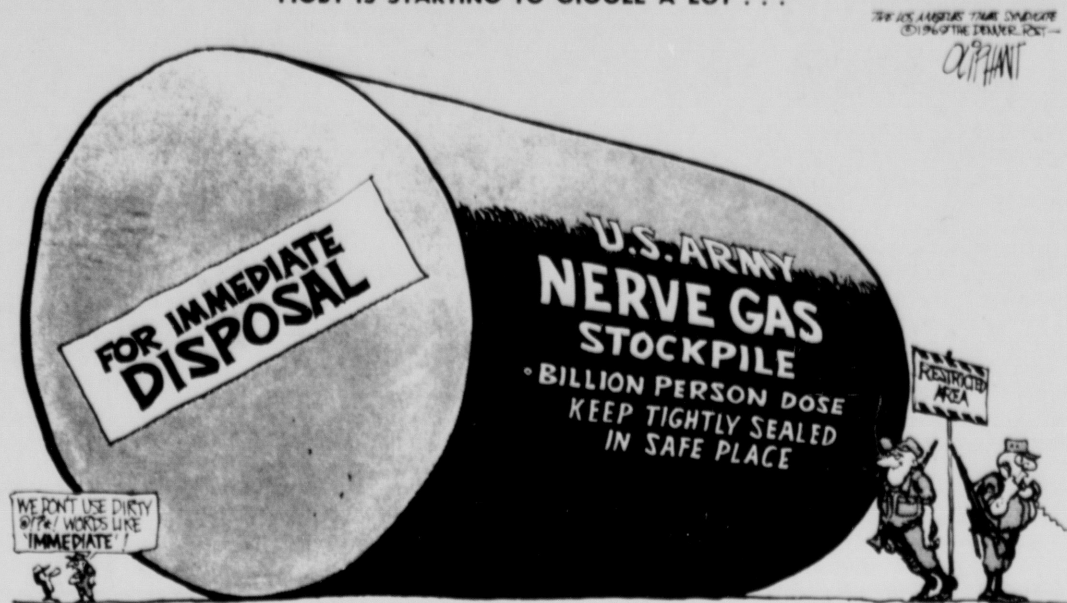

In wording the Act, the unique qualities of Wilderness Areas were not overlooked. The Act provides that "The establishment and maintenance of areas of wilderness are consistent with the purposes and provisions of this Act." This means that they will remain in their pristine condition. Roads into them will not be permitted, nor will commercial timber harvesting be allowed. No developed recreation areas will be permitted in Wilderness Areas. But they will be open to recreationists traveling on foot or on horseback. Hunting and fishing will continue to be permitted in them.

Human nature being what it is, it's not surprising that so many people have developed a watered-down concept of multiple use to fit their own special interests. A good example of this is a growing intolerance toward timber harvesting, and increasing emphasis upon recreation by the general public. Forest recreation, which hardly existed in the early days, has increased in scope by leaps and bounds and continues in a steady upward spiral. It is fortunate that the Multiple Use—Sustained Yield Act was passed in 1960. Without it, timber management in the years ahead might not get a "fair shake."

The same recreationists whose hackles rise at the sight of black clear-cutting, or even the scattered stumps in a selective cutting, gladly travel the roads built by the timber operators. Without these roads that national forest timber sales have financed, much of the hinterland in the national forests would be inaccessible to the camper, hunter, fisherman, and nature lover.

Without an active timber sale program on the Allegheny National Forest, wildlife—particularly deer—would face a continuing downgrading of their range. Even-aged management, with scattered block clear-cuts of from 5 to 50 acres each, are providing food and escape cover not only for deer but for grouse and rabbits. This type of management is clearly within the scope of the Multiple Use—Sustained Yield Act. The clear-cuts in mature timber assure regeneration of wild black cherry, the second most valuable timber tree in the United States, while providing increased food and cover for wildlife. And the many miles of fine new roads that these timber sales provide annually, without any expense to the tax payers, permit better hunter distribution and a better harvest of the annual surplus of wildlife. In the summer vacation season, these same roads are heavily used by recreationists who are eager to get off the beaten path.

Fortas-Killing Popular Sport

WASHINGTON—When a man is down, everyone rushes in to kick him. It is the popular and cowardly thing to do.

So, in the case of Justice Abe Fortas, there has been a bandwagon rush of vituperation, some of it by members of Congress who have taken fees from questionable sources and by an Attorney General who still has not given a clear explanation of why he blessed the dismissal of the El Paso Natural Gas case after the Nixon law firm, of which he and the President are senior partners, received $771,129.83 from El Paso, their long-time clients.

When a man's down, he's down. But I for one do not intend to be part of the Fortas-kicking brigade.

For a man's life should be judged not by one act alone. And mistaken as Fortas was in temporarily taking a fee from Lou Wolfson, I recall some other instances when Abe stood up to be counted at a time when few others stood with him.

There was the case of Dorothy Bailey, the lowly civil service worker in the Department of Commerce who was attacked by the Senator from Wisconsin, Joe McCarthy, as a communist and was not given a chance to face her accusers. It was not a popular case. No one had ever heard of Dorothy Bailey. No one cared very much about her. But an important issue was involved—namely, the right to face those who accuse you.

And Abe Fortas, with his partners, engaged in a long, expensive, time-consuming battle to defend this obscure civil servant. They took no fee and paid for all expenses out of their own pockets. In the end, they won.

It was a vitally important landmark case involving the rights of all Americans. But those who now rush in to kick the prostrate figure of Abe Fortas did not lift a finger to help in those days. In fact, the present President of the United States was one of the enthusiastic applauders of the late Senator from Wisconsin and even went to his defense when the Eisenhower administration promoted the Army-McCarthy investigation and when the Senate moved toward censure.

There was another instance when Abe Fortas stood up to be counted, when Dr. Owen Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins professor, was singled out by Joe McCarthy as a communist. Lattimore was an expert on Mongolian and Chinese relations, had been a history teacher of oriental affairs. However, McCarthy, in his desperate determination to find someone connected with the State Department who was a communist, jumped on Lattimore as hard as the critics are jumping on Fortas today.

Once again the Fortas law firm defended a man unjustly accused, did it with their own money, their own time, and won. It took five years to fight the Lattimore battle. He had been indicted for allegedly perjury himself about using Laughlin Currie's office ten years before. No other law firm in Washington had the guts to stand up and defend Owen Lattimore against the

Not Whether, But When

HARRISBURG—The question the State Legislature left hanging here as it left for two weeks in the political hustings is not whether it will pass a State budget between $2.3 and $2.5 billion—but when.

Last summer, as the lawmakers headed for the national political conventions, the job was accomplished with a mere five and one-half hours of floor debate; the necessary documents to keep the ship of state afloat were signed, sealed and delivered a full five days before the start of the fiscal year on July 1.

A year earlier, the job poked along until the 13th day before Christmas. That was the year of the great soul searching over adding another penny to the sales tax, the sixth percent of which was made permanent just this spring.

This, of course, is the year Pennsylvania crosses the Great Divide—the $2 billion annual budget—with a vengeance. Just continuing existing programs (which have a 1968-69 price tag of $1,977 billion), and meeting mandated and normal increases in the State's General Fund Budget, will take another $333 million.

One example of the "mandates": A 1967 law which adds 332 State Troopers in 1969 at a cost of $552,000. Another: the 1968 Legislative "commitment" to raise teachers to $6,000 starting minimums at a cost of about $160 million.

In addition, Governor Shafer has asked the General Assembly to add another $160 million in "new priorities," which were hacked out by the bureaucrats last winter, then rubber-stamped by a so-called "Citizens Committee on Government Priorities".

As a consequence of this exercise, Education and Health and Welfare lined up for $106 million in these new priorities to stay well ahead of the field. Education would take 56 percent of the budget, or $142 billion. Health and welfare would get 23 percent, or $595 million. All other general fund expenditures would get 21 percent, or $515 million.

This produces a 1969-70 budget of $2,521,836,000—$2.5 billion, not counting a few urgencies that have been tacked on along the way—like a $13 million error in computing mental health costs.

Not a single Republican voice has been raised in behalf of the Governor's $2.5 billion proposal. On the contrary, Republican Legislators continue to dash cold water on the whole idea, issuing dire warnings that the mere mention of an income tax has dimmed the prospect of putting another Republican in the front office in next year's gubernatorial elections.

The best offer from the Governor has had comes from a bloc of 16 Republicans in the Senate where the GOP holds a 28-23 edge. Their counter budget calls for spending $1.9 billion, plus $300 million in special appropriations which will be "worked on" later. Thus the Senate's starting figure is $2.29 billion, down about $230 million from Gov. Shafer's budget.

However, the Senate enjoys the luxury of introducing spending bills, it does not have the authority to introduce tax legislation to cover the cost of doing business. That privilege is accorded the House of Representatives where Democrats prevail.

Thus, while the Republican Mr. Shafer has "suggested" an income tax to cover increased Commonwealth obligations, it is the Democratic-controlled House which must author the legislation, then pass it on to the Senate. House Republicans show no inclination to help pass an income tax, or even to talk about it.

On the contrary, Republican Legislators continue to dash cold water on the whole idea, issuing dire warnings that the mere mention of an income tax has dimmed the prospect of putting another Republican in the front office in next year's gubernatorial elections.

The best offer from the Governor has had comes from a bloc of 16 Republicans in the Senate where the GOP holds a 28-23 edge. Their counter budget calls for spending $1.9 billion, plus $300 million in special appropriations which will be "worked on" later. Thus the Senate's starting figure is $2.29 billion, down about $230 million from Gov. Shafer's budget.

However, the Senate enjoys the luxury of introducing

How Lucky Can You Get?

WASHINGTON—You can talk about the antiballistic missile system from now until doomsday (I'm sorry I had to use that word), but you still go around in circles.

One of the strongest proponents of the ABM system is a friend of mine who has been assigned by the Pentagon to convince skeptics like myself that we really need an ABM system. Since they have no funds yet, I bought HIM a drink. "I don't think I could make a stronger argument for the ABM," he said, "than the fact that Secretary Laird has revealed the Soviets will have a first-strike nuclear capability by 1975."

"That's pretty strong," I admitted. "But how come Secretary Laird found out about this first-strike Soviet capability and Secretaries McNamara and Clifford knew nothing about it?"

"Laird reads more," "Look, a few months ago you told me that the reason we needed an ABM system was to protect our cities from Soviet missiles. Then you said it was to protect our cities from Red Chinese missiles. After that, you said it was impossible to protect the cities so we had to protect our missile launching sites. Now you say we need it because the Soviets are building new first-strike missiles. Why don't you make up your mind?"

"Actually, it's a little of this and a little of that," he said, unperturbed. "We know we need the system, but we're still not quite sure what we need it for. It has many uses."

"For example, the Soviets are building an ABM system around Moscow. Now we know it doesn't work, but we're not certain the Soviets know it doesn't work. So if we build an ABM system, they'll find out ours doesn't work and then they'll have to assume their system doesn't work either."

"I get it," I said excitedly. "If we didn't have an ABM system, the Soviets might put too much value on the one they have."

"Right. Now we also have to think in terms of disarmament. When we have a disarmament meeting with the Soviets, we're going to have to give up something. Right?"

"Of course, that is what disarmament is all about." "We don't want to give up something that could endanger the security of the country, so if we have the ABM system, we can give that up instead. Of course, if we didn't have an ABM system for disarmament purposes, we'd have to invent one."

He continued: "I know there are many scientists and Nobel Prize winners who are attacking the system, but what they don't realize is that if they say the system won't work, the Soviets will be encouraged to go ahead with their offensive missiles, and the more missiles they stockpile the more they will be encouraged to try a first strike."

"But why?" "Because Secretary Laird says so."

"What about the cost?" "That's all anyone ever thinks about when you mention the ABM in this country—money." My friend said in disgust. "Instead of worrying about what it's going to cost, you should get down on your knees and say 'Thank God I can live in a country that can afford an antiballistic missile system.'"

"Sometimes," I said, "Americans don't know how lucky, they really are."

LETTERS AND COMMENTS

DEAR DENNY,
I attended a Bantam baseball game the other night, thinking how nice it was to see all the boys playing... until I heard a coach yell because some boy didn't have an official uniform. As if the uniform was going to make some difference in the game. If a boy has paid his registration fee and a signature by a parent that he can play, I think that is all he needs. What happens to a boy who is new moving into town or a boy who is late in signing up? Do we tell the boy "too late" or "you can't play?" Not in my opinion. This is what I call very low. This is why the Hot Stove League doesn't get the response from the parents, because we have arguments like this at all games. Sincerely,
A spectator

Points: One, if a boy moves into town and contacts the Hot Stove, he'll play; they may have to put him on a team not in his immediate neighborhood, but he'll play. Two, there have been three signups for local boys, and if parents are too lazy to at least get to one of the signups, they shouldn't expect the Hot Stove League to babysit for their youngsters on summer nights; but, the League will find a spot for the boy anyhow. And, three, this game is for the boys and the managers who make a nit-picking technical element of it are idiots. Repeat, idiots.

It happens... you pick up the paper and glance at the obituaries and a name strikes you. This time it was Clyde (Art) Dahl and a faint bell rings. Some checking with Bill Rice confirms the fact that there's a past athletic connection and more checking unearths bits and pieces of information. It's capped by a pleasant chat with J.B. Leidig, whose memory is as sharp as his manner is pleasant.

And a picture emerges of a lineman who, "in desperation," Leidig converted to a high school fullback. "He had no speed," reminisces Leidig, "and he looked like he ran the 100 in 20 seconds. But, my, oh my, could he run from that fullback spot!" More talk, and the picture flares up full-blown—a great high school fullback, then on to Allegheny College for four years as possibly the greatest fullback the school ever had, then two years at West Point, playing in the historic 21-21 Army-Navy game in Chicago in 1934, a teaching career at Aspinwall and retirement at Blairsville where death came Tuesday at age 67.

Then Shag Shaughnessy dies and Warrenites' memories go back to about 1914 and the Interstate Baseball League and a center-fielder-manager of a team probably called the Binges playing out of Warren. Major Leaguers abounded on that team, and Shaughnessy went on to a varied career in sports, capped by the invention of the playoffs that bear his name. He died on Thursday.

SHORT SPORTS: A little bit of everything—such as: Titusville's Jim Romaniszy will be performing for Edinboro State College this season... the Rocket was a standout in both football and basketball, guiding Titusville to titles in both sports... Grove City College's Jeff Claypool trying to decide between the NBA's Baltimore Bullets and the ABA's New York Nets for a pro cage career... this week's LIFE Magazine makes quite a thing of the banning of Connie Hawkins from the NBA... what with this article, the Justice Fortas story, and a scandal report on Ohio Governor, James Rhodes, all in three weeks, the magazine seems to have undergone a startling change in editorial policy... Warren Sports Booster president John Smith reports plans are in high gear for this summer's basketball league... information is available to students at WAHS and Beatty, but Smith emphasizes that the program is not just for candidates for Dragon school teams... the more the merrier.

Today's the day for the Blue-White football game that marks the end of Penn State's spring practice... Sunday, May 25th, is Helmet Day at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium... free helmet to each adult-child paying combination, with the Seattle Pilots providing the on-field opposition... the way the Tribe pitching staff is getting shelled, they oughta keep a few of those helmets near the mound as extra protection... Kane's Steve Turner reached 13-2 pole vaulting for Bucknell.

John Zawacki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Zawacki, 23 Mason rd., Warren has been named to the All-PAC track squad for 1969... John, a Thiel College sophomore, captured the long jump with a leap of 20-5/4, and placed fifth in the triple jump for the Tomcats, who finished third in the PAC... teammates Harry Spackman (sprints) and Doug Decker (distance runner) are also on the Greenville school's squad.

Looking for a Preakness prediction? Try Majestic Prince. He looked terrific in the Derby, and all he's done since is burn up the track—a half-mile in 45 seconds Thursday in practice rounds. Arts and Letters and Top Knight should fight it out for second.

Warren County Trackmen Vie In District Meet Today

By DENNY BONAVITA

Today is Day for Warren County trackmen as Eisenhower, Warren and Youngsville journey to Meadville's Allegheny College to compete in the District 10 Track and Field meet.

Entering two men per event, the three county schools each have a handful of prominent hopefuls seeking to snare one of the top two positions and earn a berth in next week's PIAA State Track Meet in Harrisburg.

Warren's Dragons will be competing in the Class A division, while the Eagles and Knights vie in Class B. A site switch from Edinboro State College moved the B events to Allegheny recently, and though the Class A program is pretty well ironed out, county coaches Harvey Shapiro and Denny Engstrom report they still did not have a definite itinerary of events last night.

The schedule now calls for a 9 a.m. starting time, and a 1 p.m. afternoon resumption. Warren, finishing up an impressive season under first-year mentors Tom Tourtelott and Tom Smith, would like nothing better than a solid contingent at the state meet. Sprinters Joe Cauley and Dan Swanson, hurdler Dick Lareau, javelin threat Ed O'Neill and jumper Dan Krumm look to be the Dragons' most promising bets, though the lineup is replete with entrants who could pop into the picture with a strong showing.

O'Neill has sent the javelin whizzing out 208 feet, while Cauley is just over ten seconds in the 100 and Lareau holds a piece of the school record in the hurdles. Two-miler Larry Maxwell, still not back to last year's form, has been putting in a week of hard work, and it could well pay off.

Eisenhower's chief threat is Martin Hoffner, 6-4 in the high jump, 20-10 1/4 in the long jump and running in the 120-yard high hurdles. Gary Dalrymple has bettered his 12-foot competition pole vault mark substantially in practice, and is now almost fully recovered from a mononucleosis bout that has kept him somewhat weakened during the season. 880 runner Andy Bosko and low hurdler Craig Pearson, plus the two-mile relay quartet, also look solid in coach Engstrom's lineup.

Youngsville's Steve Ostrander, 10-4 in the 100 and 22.5 in the 220, looms high in coach Shapiro's hopes, while record-holder Paul Yucha has a good chance off his 20-9 1/2 long jump, and triple jump, and could go on the strong Eagle 880 relay team.

Ron Chandler and Jim Pearson in the two-mile, and Tom Burleigh in the high jump have the potential, as does Bob Long, clocked in 2:03 in the 880 and also credited with an outside shot in the pole vault.

Allegheny College does not have an all-weather track, and the unfamiliar setup, large field and possibility of rain may combine to hold down the times.

Tribe Bows, 3-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dick Green hit a two-run homer and John "Blue Moon" Odom hurled a seven-inning as the Oakland Athletics beat the Cleveland Indians 3-0 Friday night.

The victory was Odom's seventh against one loss. The loss went to southpaw Mike Pail, 1-1, who struck out 11 and walked two in seven innings.

Green's homer over the left field fence in the seventh inning followed a single by Danny Carter, who homered in the ninth.

The Athletics didn't get a runner on base until the fifth inning when Paul walked Dick Green and Rick Monday consecutively after retiring the first 14 batters.

Oakland got its first hit in the sixth on a one-out double to short left by Bert Campaneris, who stole third.

Baltimore Bops KC
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Frank Robinson, whose two earlier hits had driven in one run and set up another, singled in two runs in the 11th inning and the Baltimore Orioles finally overcame Kansas City 5-3 Friday night.

Andy Etchebarren and winner Eddie Watt opened the 11th with walks. Mark Belanger hit into a double play but Paul Blair beat out a bunt and Robinson followed with his hit.

The Royals had tied the game with two out in the ninth on a walk, Jerry Adair's single and an infield hit by Lou Pinella after Baltimore had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning on Belanger's run-scoring hit.

Belanger also tripled and scored Baltimore's first run on Robinson's hit in the third and Belanger walked in the fifth, took third on Robinson's hit and came home on a sacrifice fly by Boog Powell.

Pilots Win Wild One

BOSTON (AP) — John Kennedy, Tommy Harper and Wayne Comer rapped 11th inning homers, in a six-run outburst that lifted the Seattle Pilots to a wild 10-9 victory over the Boston Red Sox Friday night.

Despite the homer outburst, the Pilots had to survive a desperate bid by the Red Sox in their 10th when they scored five times.

Rico Petrocelli's 11th homer drove in two runs, two more scored when a hit got through Comer and Mike Andrews hit a sacrifice fly before Carl Yastrzemski struck out for the final out.

Pinch hitter Larry Haney had singled in the tying run for Seattle in the seventh inning.

Yanks Edge Angels

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, who had managed just one hit against Rudy May until the ninth inning, rallied for two runs on Bobby Murcer's two-out double and defeated the California Angels 2-1 Friday night.

May had retired 15 straight batters when Bill Robinson opened the ninth with the Yankees' second hit. After pinch hitter Roy White struck out on three attempts to sacrifice, Horace Clark filed out. But then Tom Tresh singled and raced to second on the throw to third, Murcer followed with his winning hit.

The Angels had pushed across an unearned run on Bubba Morton's two-out single in the first following an error by Bobby Cox and May made it stand up until the ninth.

Chisox Top Senators

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Epstein hit three home runs in a high-powered slugfest Friday night, but the Chicago White Sox overcame them and two other Washington homers to beat the Senators 7-6 on rookie Carlos May's 10th home run in the seventh inning.

There were seven homers in the game, including Frank Howard's 14th and Brandt Alyea's third for the Senators and Buddy Bradford's fifth for the White Sox. Epstein, who hit two of his blasts off Sammy Ellis and one off Wilbur Wood, now has eight for the season.

Danny Olesinski, who finally put down a three-run onslaught in the seventh, emerged as winning pitcher, and Casey Cox, the fourth Washington hurler, was tagged with the defeat.

State Game Land Camping Rules

Rules and regulations governing overnight camping along certain State Game Lands roads have been drawn up by the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

These are the conditions:

1. Only trailers or mobile-type units may be used.
2. Each unit shall be located at least 500 feet from any other unit.
3. Parking shall be off the road only along State Game Lands roads designated for overnight camping.
4. Littering of any type is prohibited.
5. Any camping unit remaining overnight must be occupied.
6. Camping is permitted during the big game season only; camping during small game, archery or other seasons is prohibited.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission will meet with sportsmen, governmental agencies and other groups interested in hunting and conservation on Monday, June 2, at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held in Public Utility Commission Hearing Room No. 2 in the North Office Building near the Capitol, Harrisburg.

Game Com. Sportsmen Meet

Putting winners were Joyce Anderson, Neva Jenkins, Bev McMillan, Irene Krimmel, Elizabeth Jones and Margaret Moore. Delores Boston won the new member putting contest.

FUN CITY CAGERS

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK, May 16—New York City's most successful human export traditionally has been its annual crop of collegebound basketball players, planted in the ghettos, nurtured in the playgrounds and community centers, harvested in the high schools and packaged for distribution throughout the country: rangy Irish forwards, scrappy Jewish guards, and more recently Black centers. This decade's prize was Lew Alcindor, shipped from Manhattan to Los Angeles, but the South and the midlands are filled with New Yorkers too. The University of South Carolina, whose coach is that leading importer, Frank McGuire, will have four juniors, all from New York, on its starting five next season, unless the three stars of last season's freshman team, all New Yorkers, replace them.

In recent weeks, two developments have thrown some new light on this adolescent industry. The city's public high school coaches tried to use basketball as a wedge to restore budget cuts, and Life Magazine published a brilliant investigation of the sad case of Connie Hawkins, one of the best basketball players the city's public schools ever produced.

The waves of budget slashing throughout the nation, great, remote sums, are made of tiny rivulets of money. The city's education budget, it is announced, will be cut by $116 million, which is meaningless. But, $300,000 of this will come off the top of interscholastic sports. Most of that $300,000 would have gone to coaches. They were not pleased.

The coaches met, and with their natural flair for the dramatic, suggested that instead of cutting each interscholastic sport by 20 per cent, to make up the $300,000, one entire sport should be dropped.

Basketball.

The logic was this: one basketball team costs the school more and serves fewer athletes than one gymnastics team plus one golf team plus one tennis or swimming team, they said.

The ulterior motive was this: Basketball is a predominantly black sport, the others are predominantly white sports. There would be reaction from the black community, and the cut would be restored.

"Since they are the party in power these days," said Ed Amore, president of the Coaches Association, referring to the black community, "we wanted to get some help from that direction."

Amore now thinks some of the cuts will be restored, although there has been "no feedback from black groups." Unless the cuts are restored, he said, the city's coaches will strike next September. They have dropped the idea of dropping Basketball as unfair.

Connie Hawkins was graduated from Boys High in 1960 with a general diploma. He had majored and minored in basketball. At the time, scouts and college coaches who infest schoolboy basketball said that Hawkins would be a superstar in the National Basketball Association, that the only thing he couldn't do was sign his name for autographs. It seemed unnecessarily cruel at the time, but they were, of course, basically right.

David Wolf of Life's sports staff, in a compelling documentary in the May 16 issue, has traced Hawkins from Bedford-Stuyvesant to the University of Iowa through the day in 1961 when District Attorney Frank Hogan named him an "intermediary" between players and fixers, to his present status as star of the American Basketball Association and plaintiff in a $6 million suit against the N.B.A., for refusing to allow him to play.

Wolf writes: "It is a complex anti-trust suit, and no matter what the court may rule, evidence recently uncovered indicates that Connie Hawkins never knowingly associated with gamblers, that he never introduced a player to a fixer, and that the only damaging statements about his involvement were made by Hawkins himself as a terrified, semi-literate teenager who thought he could go to jail unless he said what the D.A.'s detectives pressed him to say. Hawkins, in other words, did nothing that would have justified his being banned by the N.B.A."

The case will go to trial in the fall, but the true defendant will be the city's interscholastic sports system, farming the ghetto streets for the nation's college basketball squads, shipping out boys who may never graduate from the colleges that buy them.

Sports officials and coaches tend to get very sanctimonious about all the boys who get to college through basketball and track and field who wouldn't get there otherwise. If the coaches do strike, perhaps the money they would have earned and the space they would have taken up could be used to teach their players to read.

Horton Quits Club, Tigers Levy Fine

ST. PAUL, MINN., May 16 (AP) — Willie Horton, the AWOL left fielder for the Detroit Tigers, was indefinitely suspended Friday and it is costing him a reported $340 a day in salary.

Manager Mayo Smith invoked the suspension prior to his club's game against the Minnesota Twins Friday night at Metropolitan Stadium.

Horton suddenly left Thursday night's game against the Chicago White Sox in Detroit during the seventh inning, dressed and hasn't talked to Tiger officials since.

The suspension came after Horton failed to board a chartered flight in Detroit for the Twin Cities.

"I don't know whether he will be here or not, I don't know yet if he'll play if he does get here. I'll talk to him first before deciding that."

Meanwhile, Horton's whereabouts were not publicly known but he was still believed to be in Detroit.

Nathaniel Conyers, Horton's attorney, said he spent Friday afternoon with Horton in Detroit discussing the walkout.

Conyers said they parted with the understanding that Horton would leave for Minneapolis to join the team Friday night.

In Detroit, sportscaster Al Ackerman of WWJ-TV said he had learned Horton left the team because he wants to be traded.

"He's tired of the treatment from the front office," said Ackerman, who added that Horton was disappointed in his share of off-season banquets and speaking dates and extended contract negotiations.

He's not primarily disappointed in the booby by the fans, stated Ackerman, who said he learned of the situation from a source "very close to Willie." He declined to name the source.

The Detroit manager said Horton was jeered Wednesday night after an error against the White Sox. He also was booed Thursday night "but the crowd also was cheering him," Smith said.

Smith said the suspension will last "until he (Horton) decides to rejoin his teammates."

Record-Tying 65 Gives Yancey Colonial Golf Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 16 (AP) — Bert Yancey burst out with a closely bunched field with a record matching 65 Friday and stormed into the second-round lead in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Yancey, a one-time West Point cadet, had a 36-hole total of 136, four under par for two rounds over the commanding 7,175-yard par 70 Colonial Country Club course, and held a two-stroke lead over a pack of four locked at 138.

Included in that group are big Jack Nicklaus, a perplexed Gary Player, veteran Billy Maxwell and Jack Montgomery. Player, a muscular little South African, shot a 68 with seven birdies and five bogeys. Nicklaus and Maxwell each had par 70 and Montgomery a 68.

Yancey's round, which was marked by six birdies and a single bogey, tied the competitive course record set by Ben Hogan in 1946 and since matched by six others, including Arnold Palmer.

A record 20 subpar rounds were fired, with Bert Greene tying the record for the front nine, 31. He finished with a 68.

But ambitious Chuck Courtney, the first-round leader at 66, found the going tough. He blew to a 74 for 140.

Palmer and Gene Littler, the season's leading money winner, each had a 68 for 141. Defending champion Billy Casper fell back with a 74 for 145. Master's champion George Archer had a 74 for 147, and PGA champ Julius Boros notched his second consecutive 72.

Majestic Prince Is A Nightmare For Rest Of Preakness Entries

BALTIMORE (AP)—Horsemen hope for a winner in a Triple Crown race. But in the Preakness dreams of seven trainers there is a nightmare—Majestic Prince.

"We have hopes of beating Majestic Prince, but they're slim," Elliott Burch, trainer of Arts and Letters said Friday.

And there is general agreement with Burch that the seven 3-year olds who will oppose Majestic Prince in Saturday's Preakness, the second leg of the Triple Crown, will have a tough time beating Frank McMahon's Kentucky Derby winner.

Unbeaten Majestic Prince is the solid favorite to make the Preakness his ninth straight victory and move a step closer to becoming the ninth Triple Crown winner and the first since Citation took the Derby, Preakness and Belmont in 1948.

The weather forecast is clear and sunny.

CBS will televise the race from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Radio coverage, also by CBS, will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Greengrass Greene, Al Hattab and Captain Action worked out Friday while the big three—Majestic Prince, Arts and Letters and Top Knight took it easy.

Greengrass Greene went an easy half-mile in 48 seconds; Al Hattab blew out three-eighths of a mile in 36 4-5 and Captain Action worked three-eighths in 39 flat.

Trainer Johnny Longden walked Majestic Prince and said, "I've done all I can do. Now it is up to the horse to get the job done, and I thoroughly believe he will."

Asked about Majestic Prince's blazing work of 45 seconds for a half-mile Thursday, Longden said: "He's run eight times and each time he's worked fast before the race. Good horses work fast."

After watching Arts and Letters, the Derby runner-up and early second betting choice here, gallop under exercise boy Norman Kerr, Burch observed: "He sure was full of life out there, but did you notice how he settled down after he returned to the barn? He is like a fighter—right on edge."

Top Knight, the early third pick despite his disappointing fifth in the Derby, also was out for a walk. The colt went the half mile in 45 2-5 Thursday, and trainer Ray McCall expects him to exhibit the form he showed in winning the Flamingo and Florida Derby.

O.J. Simpson Hopes To Sign With Bills

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All-American halfback O. J. Simpson said Friday he hopes for progress toward a contract with Buffalo next week when he confers with owner Ralph Wilson.

The session is tentatively set for Detroit and Simpson says, "This will be the first time that I've been in the picture."

Heretofore, his agent, Chuck Barnes, has discussed the contract with Wilson.

Buffalo drafted the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California as No. 1 and there has been much speculation over what Simpson wants and what he has been offered.

He did not give the date of next week's meeting, but commented in an interview with Bud Furllo, sports editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner: "I read where Mr. Wilson said he would consider a trade so long as the other team involved didn't try to unload some old players on him. I don't think he wants a trade any more than I do."

It had been reported that Barnes asked $600,000 for a five-year contract plus a personal loan of $550,000. Also, speculation had it that Wilson had offered $250,000 on a three year pact.

Simpson has reportedly signed a three-year contract with Chevrolet for $250,000. He still lives in the same apartment near the USC campus.

"I bought my mother a house in San Francisco," he said. "That's the only money I've spent outside of some clothes for my wife and baby daughter."

Simpson said he would not play in the College All-Star game unless he is signed, nor would he participate in next month's All-American Bowl.

"You know," he added, "I want to play in that All-Star game. It sure would be nice to play against the Jets."

First Gal Qualifies For Triple Trophy

A Cumberland County woman is the first member of the fair sex to qualify for the Pennsylvania Game Commission's coveted Triple Trophy Award.

Mrs. Marilyn J. Corbett of Carlisle, R.D. 1, earned the award by taking a black bear on the first day of the season, November 25; by tagging an antlered whitetail deer on the last day of the season, December 14; and by bagging a wild turkey on the first day of the spring gobbler season, May 3.

Warren Garden Club came in for its share of honors bestowed at the 1969 Convention of National Council of State Garden Clubs held May 8-14 at Sheraton-Dallas Hotel, Dallas, Texas. The Flower Show Achievement Purple Rosette was awarded the local club for its theme "Show Time." The award is presented for a standard flower show staged by a single club. Also in Pennsylvania and the winning circle (receiving an identical award) was Town and Country Garden Club of Lancaster for its theme "A Happening." The Presidential Citation, selected by the national president in recognition of some outstanding achievement, went to Mrs. William H. Benson, Carlisle, Pa., for appreciation of exceptional work in organizational study and by-laws. The NCOSGC is composed of over 400,000 members with over 15,000 clubs in 49 states and the District of Columbia. Quite a distinction for the Warren Club, isn't it?

From Akeley comes word that Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Venman of that village with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiltsie of Fentonville and Mr. and Mrs. Arden Walter of Lander, spent the past weekend with the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Venman at Cains, Pa. While there they attended graduation services at Lancaster School of Bible of which the Rev. Venman was a member. They also attended Sunday services at Pequia Independent Church where he has been a pastor since May, 1968. He was ordained March 30 in Pequia Baptist Church. The Rev. Mr. Venman is the son of the Conrad Venmans and brother of Walter and Mrs. Wiltsie.

A farewell luncheon meeting was held honoring Marie McPoland of Pittsfield with members of Pittsfield Home Extension members. Marie has sold her store, a Pittsfield landmark and is moving to Clarendon. (Next regular meeting is May 28 when election of officers will be held.)

We read recently about the housewife who called the plumber when her kitchen sink was hopelessly plugged. Standing around trying to be helpful, she watched him disconnect pipes. His head still under the sink, he pushed out a pail of gummy water and asked, "Lady, could you empty this somewhere?" "Certainly," piped she and emptied the bucket -- you guessed it-- in the sink. Yes the plumber's head was still under there!

HONORED AT FAMILY PARTY

Mrs. William Lawton Sr., of 25 Locust street, Warren, was guest of honor Thursday, May 15 at a party which marked her 83rd birthday. Surrounded by 10 of her children and grandchildren, Mrs. Lawton was presented a red rose corsage by her great-grandson, Steven Dunham. (Photo by Mahan)

MISS BOOK

— McGarry Studio

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Book, 409 Poplar street, Warren, are pleased to announce the recent engagement of their youngest daughter, JeriAnne, to Pfc. Jeffery L. Munksgard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Munksgard, 103 Jefferson street, Warren.

Jeri graduated from Warren Area High School with the Class of 1967 and is presently in her second year of nurses training at E. J. Meyer Memorial Hospital in Buffalo, New York.

Jeff graduated from WAHS in 1968 and is now serving in the U. S. Army with the 504th Battalion in Furth, Germany.

Definite wedding plans have not been completed.

In Memoriam

The Memorial Service for departed members of Warren Grange will be held at 8 p.m. Monday. Anyone desiring to attend the service is welcome. Members are to bring cookies and sandwiches. Warren Grange Home Economics Group will not meet Tuesday but will combine all three months' birthdays June 17.

Mother-Daughter WSCS Banquet

TIDIOUTE — The three WSCS Circles of the Methodist Church held a Mother-Daughter banquet May 7 with 105 mothers and daughters present.

Good Shepherd Circle with Mrs. Paul Craft as chairman was in charge of the program. This group presented each mother with a carnation upon arrival. Circle III was in charge of table decoration while Circle I arranged for the baked chicken tureen dinner.

The program consisted of a tribute to all mothers given by 11 daughters representing the letters in "Mothers Day." Three poems honoring the Day were presented by Mrs. Paul Ludwig titled "What is a Mother?"; Mrs. Calvin Montgomery Sr., "What is a Daughter?" and Miss Darla Ludwig, daughter of Mrs. Paul Ludwig, "What is a Grandmother?"

A skit, titled "A Mother's Memories," written by Mrs. Jon Druggan was given by Good Shepherd Circle and Mrs. Robert Reed, accompanied by Mrs. Carl Rosequist sang "Mother."

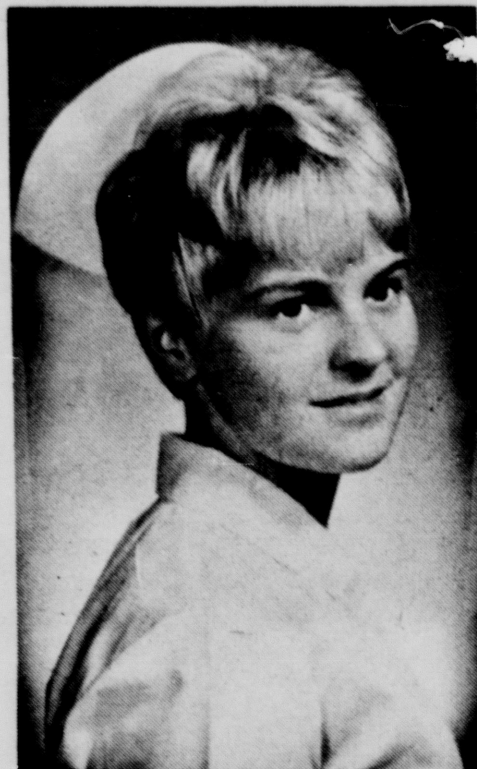

Presentations of flower arrangements were given the following who were honored for various reasons: Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, the oldest mother present and also the only one representing four generations of her family who were; Mrs. Hugh McGraw with daughter Karen (Mrs. Paul Craft) and her daughter, Lisa; Mrs. Karl Johnson with daughters Mrs. Robert Knight and her daughter, Patty Knight.

Mrs. Calvin Montgomery Sr. was honored for the most daughters, daughters-in-law and granddaughters, a total of 12. The newest mother was Mrs. Lee Baker; the youngest daughter present was Norene Downey, daughter of Mrs. Duane Downey, who was also honored as the youngest daughter with her mother, the former Gail McIntyre, present. She represented three generations since

Woman's Club Bridge Scores

There were four tables in play for Woman's Club Bridge Thursday with an average of 32. Miss Felicia Lucia and Mrs. Winston Teague were first with 39½. In second place with 39 were Mrs. Arthur DeLuca and Mrs. Gaston Hamilton. Placing third with 32 were Mrs. J. R. Hahn and Mrs. Donald Conaway. Last week's winner was Mrs. J. T. Valone.

MISS LARSON

Was Graduated

Miss Barbara Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Larson, of 14 Alson street, Warren, Pa. was among 85 members of the Class of 1969 at Saint Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Cleveland, Ohio, who were graduated at Services at The Church of the Savior in Cleveland Heights, last evening, May 16.

Barbara is a Warren Area High School graduate and attended Kent State University, Kent, Ohio for one year before entering the School of Nursing. She will be employed at Warren General Hospital until September. She will then go to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas, where she will begin her training in the U. S. Army Nurse Corps.

her grandmother, Mrs. Lenore McIntyre, was present.

Honored with having a birthday nearest to Mother's Day was Mrs. Bernard King, WSCS president, and her daughter, Susan, whose birthday is the same as her mother's, May 8. Attending from the farthest distance was Mrs. Ludwig, mother of Mrs. Paul Ludwig, visiting here from Belsano, Pa.

The next combined WSCS affair will be a three-week rummage sale June 6-21 at Goodwin's store room on Main street. Week day hours will be 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and weekends 10 a.m. - 8 p.m.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is my roommate. She is the greatest. She is also the sloppiest. When she lived at home her mother was her maid. Here at school I am,

At the beginning of the semester she used to ask me to fix her bed when she was late for a class. I always did it. Then she began leaving the bed unmade and her clothes all over the place. When I'd get mad and chew her out she'd say, "Be a lamb. I've gotta get this paper in tomorrow." or "I've got a groovy date and I'm late now." Or, "I have a rotten headache." That girl had a million excuses.

Two weeks ago I decided to ignore her side of the room until she cleaned it. Ann, it got so terrible I was ashamed to have anybody in. The orange peels, the half bottles of Coke, the cookies, the underwear, sweaters, shoes, cigaret butts, newspapers—it was unbearable. So I cleaned up after her, like I swore I never would.

A month ago I signed up to be her roommate next year because we could stay in the same room and not have the mess of moving. What can I do about this miserable situation?—WET. NURSE TO A SLOB

Dear Wet: Apparently you would prefer to live in a mess nine months out of the year than go to the trouble of moving. You must like the slob so much you figure the mess is worth it. So resign yourself to picking up after her or living in a junk heap because those are your choices.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on two letters which appeared in your column recently. One was signed "Sick of Sex And Hungry For Love." The other was from "Hey You."

At least a prostitute can have a day off. And she can spend her money as she pleases. A wife has no such privileges. Let's face it. Most men need a wife. And sex is only a small part of it. A man needs a wife to prepare his meals, do his laundry, keep the house in order, raise his children, run his errands, pay his bills, entertain his friends and make a social life for him. When a man is sick his wife is his nurse.

When a woman is sick she drags herself around and keeps going until she drops. And oh yes—a man needs a woman to talk to when the TV breaks down.

When a wife feels that her husband is using her she has only one weapon. No sex. Let him go elsewhere. She has nothing to lose. There was nothing there to start with.—WOKE UP TOO LATE

Dear Late: Your letter is so full of hostility and bitterness it causes me to wonder why you remain under the same roof with a man for whom you feel nothing but contempt.

If you haven't tried counseling, with or without your husband, I urge you to do so. You might learn something that will change your life. Your husband obviously turns you off—totally. But is it possible that you turned HIM off—first? I don't know the answer and you probably don't either. But I urge you to try to find it.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Y-Teens held their annual Mother-Daughter banquet May 13 at the YWCA. In addition to mothers special guests were Mrs. Donald Spencer, president of the board of directors; Mrs. Samuel Bonavita and Mrs. Robert Chittester, both members of the Y-Teen committee. Table grace was given by Miss Ruby Wiles with Mrs. Bonavita and Mary Jo Bonavita giving the toasts.

Following a chicken dinner, Mrs. Arvilla Nordstrom presented awards to outstanding Y-Teens and to Miss Y-Teen Spirit of 1969. Miss Nancy Colter, Miss Mary Jo Bonavita, Miss Ruby Wiles, Miss Sally Hedman and Miss Jan Shorts received pins for being outstanding Y-Teens for 1969. Miss Y-Teen Spirit of 1969 was presented to Miss Dorothy Dashem for her outstanding enthusiasm and willingness to help whenever and wherever needed.

Miss Silvia Scalise sang a vocal solo followed by the play "Culcha", a negro comedy. The play was presented by 8th grade Y-Teens. Cast members were: Miss Sally Hedman, Miss Diane Kerner, Miss Barbara Snavley, Miss Nancy Chittester, Miss Kim Elias, Miss Doreen Franklin, Miss Bijou Clinger and Miss Mickey Nelson.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's my pet peeve.

It's all the plastic bags blowing around in backyards and alleys.

As mother of three small boys, it worries me. So when I'm finished with a plastic bag, I cut several big holes in it and stuff it in an empty can or box with a couple of napkins on top.

During the two years we've been living here, two small boys in our city were suffocated with plastic bags.

Please help us mothers by telling everyone about this.

A Military Wife

Hon, I'm with you. Let's all protect the young ones. It's highly recommended that you tie the bag in lots of knots, too, before discarding it.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When traveling and you have disposable plastic baby bottles that leak even with the cap on . . . place a piece of plastic wrap across the top of the bottle and then put the nipple and cap over it.

This keeps the milk from leaking out the hole in the nipple and can easily be removed when ready to use.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD PERRIN United In Marriage

Frances Stella Aldrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Gordon Aldrich, 1235 Yankee Bush Road, Warren and Gerald Robert Perrin, son of Mrs. Leora Perrin, R. D. 1, Youngsville and Gerald A. Perrin, R. D. 1, Pittsfield, were united in marriage at 1 p.m., May 3, 1969 in St. Luke's Catholic Church, Youngsville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles M. Hurley before an altar decorated with vases of gladioli and pompons. Velda Papalia provided organ music and Jack Haight was vocalist.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a long, princess A-line skimmer gown of Chantilly lace and nylon organza which featured a lace bodice accented with pearls, a bateau neckline and long, lace pointed sleeves. The wateau chapel train was of nylon organza, accented with lace motifs and held in place by a matching bow.

Her bouffant veil of bridal illusion was attached to a pearl cap highlighted by lace rosettes, crystals and a pearl tear drop. She carried a cascade of white gladioli, carnations and miniature roses accented with ivy.

Jane Klomp, a friend of the bride from Jamestown, N. Y., was matron of honor and was attired in a floor length gown of orchid taffeta with chiffon overlay and floating back panel edged in lace. She wore a matching rose headpiece and carried a single, long stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Ann Cecil, Syracuse, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, Esther Moravek, a friend and the bride's cousins, Stephene Bige, Youngsville and Peg Rapp, were bridesmaids. All wore gowns the same style as the honor attendant's only in mint green, with matching rose headpieces. They also carried a long stemmed yellow rose. Mary Launer in an identical frock, was flower girl and carried a single yellow rose. Ringbearer was Scott Doney.

Ronald Petty, Rochester, N. Y., served as his cousin's best man and ushers were John Aldrich, the bride's brother; Dennis, Tom and Bruce, brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a red and black sheath with bone accessories with white carnation corsage while the bridegroom's mother chose a beige two-piece suit with matching accessories and white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's step-mother wore a royal blue suit and white carnation corsage. Grandmothers present, Mrs. Frances Muczynski and Mrs. Cress Aldrich, were favored with roses.

The wedding reception for 275 guests was held at Brokenstraw Fish and Game Club where the wedding color scheme of orchid and green was carried out. Frank and Florence Bige were master and mistress of ceremonies with Sharon Aldrich and Sue Perrin in charge of the guest book. The bride's aunt, Angi Muczynski, cut the six-tier wedding cake which was accented with orchid rosettes.

For a wedding trip to Montreal, Canada, the new Mrs. Perrin wore a navy, red and white double knit three-piece suit with coordinated accessories.

The couple resides at 19 Jackson street, North Warren.

The bride is employed as a laboratory technician at Warren State Hospital and the bridegroom is employed at Marlin Rockwell Corp.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Miss Carol Flood, Mrs. Nancy Ecker, Mrs. Florence Bige and Mrs. Angi Muczynski.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Bratten, Mr. Gilead, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Petty, Penfield, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Reed, Corry, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stevens, Philadelphia; Mrs. Kay Cutchall, Ashtabula, Ohio; Robert Wetzel, Erie and Miss Rose Mattis, Kane.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a tip for picnickers that I got from a dear friend.

Place your catsup, mustard or mayonnaise in the center of a piece of foil paper, fold sides and ends together tightly in an envelope style. When ready to use, clip off the end and squeeze out.

Saves taking jars and bottles with you.

Jayne Hammond

DEAR HELOISE:

I am so disgusted. I live in an apartment house that has washers and dryers where you put in your nickels and dimes!

Many times my neighbors and I have put our husband's hard-earned money in those slots and the machines do not work. We have complained to the manager and he does not believe us. What can I do?

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF WARREN AREA

Voters' Guide

Primary Election May 20, 1969

This Voters Guide is published by the League of Women Voters of Warren Area which does not support or oppose any political party or candidate for public office, but encourages its members to participate as individuals in the party of their choice. The sources of the Voters Guide information are candidates' signed answers to League questionnaires.

The purpose of a primary election is the nomination of party candidates to appear on the slate for the general election. Since Pennsylvania has a closed primary, the voter may choose candidates only within the party in which he is registered. Thus a voter must be registered in a party to vote in a primary. However, if he is registered NONPARTISAN, any voter may vote on a ballot question which appears on the primary ballot.

Mrs. T. K. Stratton-President LWV
Mrs. E. D. Burns Jr., Editor-Voters Guide

Ballot Question

Shall justices and judges of the Supreme, Superior, Commonwealth and all other statewide courts be appointed by the Governor from a list of qualified persons submitted by a nonpartisan Judicial Qualifications Commission, subject to retention in office thereafter by vote of the electorate, instead of by partisan nomination and election.

EXPLANATION

If this question wins a majority vote there will be a new method of selecting judges for the statewide courts. The Governor will make the appointments from a list submitted by a seven member panel of which no more than four are members of the same party and no more than three are lawyers. The new appointees will be candidates in subsequent elections without party label on a "yes or no" ballot. Local judges will not be affected. If the question fails to win a majority the present method of nomination and election of judges under party labels will continue to be used.

Judge of the Supreme Court (Vote for One)

Term of Office—10 years
Salary—$37,500

REPUBLICAN

Thomas W. Pomeroy Jr., Incumbent, Ben Avon Heights. Age: 60.

Judge of the 37th Judicial District (Vote for One)

Term of Office—10 years.
Salary—$27,500.

REPUBLICAN

ROBERT L. WOLFE, 307 Hazel Street, Warren, Pa. Age 43
Education: St. Bonaventure University, Allegany, New York B. A. Degree with major in Political Science and Philosophy. State University of New York at Buffalo, New York. LL.B., Juris Doctor.
Occupation: Attorney at Law.
Training & Experience: As a practicing attorney for many years, the last ten in Warren, I believe that I have the experience and qualifications to be Judge of Warren and Forest Counties. As the attorney for clients in literally hundreds of trials involving a great variety of legal problems, I have become well versed in all phases of courtroom procedure and practice.

I have appeared before the Supreme and Superior Courts of Pennsylvania to argue complex legal points on appeal. I have also practiced in Federal Courts as well as in Courts of this and other Judicial Districts in Pennsylvania.

I am a member of the American and Pennsylvania Bar Associations as well as the Warren County Bar Association, and often attend courses and seminars sponsored by these groups to keep abreast of new developments in the law. I am a member of the American Judicature Society which studies ways and means to improve the administration of justice and the efficiency and quality of our Court systems.

I have been active in civic and community affairs and feel that these experiences have given me an understanding of the people, the problems and the unique qualities of this area. It is my conviction that any man who aspires to be Judge must not only know the law, as this is presumed, but must also be sensitive to human and environmental factors in the administration of justice.

REPUBLICAN

Training & Experience: Serving regularly as Judge of Warren and Forest Counties, since January 3, 1969. Made numerous changes to assure efficient operation of the Court. Cleared up backlog of cases and maintained an up-to-date calendar. Over 25 years of legal experience in all phases of the law. Former School, Township and Authority Solicitor. Eleven years of prime judicial training as District Attorney. Helped to make Warren County one of the cleanest in the State. Lecturer for FBI, police and District Attorney seminars, wrote local rules for Board of Arbitration, Federal Commissioner in Condemnation. International law experience as Claims Commissioner for Austria rendering judgment involving millions. Six years as Chairman of Warren Borough Planning Commission. Instructor for Magistrates Association. Established procedures and reforms in handling criminal matters copied by other counties. Practiced before all State Courts, Federal and the Federal Tax Courts. Practiced before the National Labor Relations Board, Public Utilities Commission and Workmen's Compensation Board. Extensive trial experience in all phases of the law. Proven record of negotiation and settlement in personal injury cases to save clients expensive trials. Involvement in civic and political affairs both locally and statewide level. Former State President of the District Attorneys Association. Former Chairman of the State Young Republicans. The 11 years experience as District Attorney invaluable in sitting as Judge of the murder case in the Forest County branch of the 37th Judicial District.

Warren Borough Council

First Ward: REPUBLICAN—Dr. Walter J. Jones, 2 Fourth Avenue.

DEMOCRAT—Stanley E. Warren Jr., 621 East St. Third Ward: REPUBLICAN—David W. Winans, 426 Fourth Avenue (Unopposed)

Fourth Ward: REPUBLICAN—Orlando J. Papalia. DEMOCRAT—Edwin E. Sullivan, 220 Walnut Street, Warren, Incumbent. Age: 37. Education: High School, Business College. Occupation: District Manager Columbus Services, New Castle, Pa. Training & Experience: Four years in office and various seminars sponsored by the Federal Government.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them?

City planning—I feel that this is a very important issue to the people of Warren. This must be constantly reviewed and revised for the benefit of the majority.

DEMOCRAT—Victor E. Graziano, 1117 Spring St. (Failed to Reply).

Fifth Ward: REPUBLICAN—Karl G. Timm, 305 E. Fifth Ave., Warren. Age: 59, Incumbent: Yes. Education: High School, Penn State night school. Occupation: Sales Engineer. Training & Experience: Warren Borough Councilman since August 12, 1957.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? Having served on Borough Council for the past 12 years, it has become more apparent to me each year that the most important issue facing our community is the need for a more united effort on the part of Borough Council as well as the citizenry of our community to improve our "image" as far as our visitors are concerned. This can only be accomplished through thorough planning for better living conditions, a more attractive business district, and a program of traffic control that will invite visitors to look forward to traveling to our community rather than "writing it off" as just another town to avoid. If allowed to continue to serve on Council for another term, I will continue to press for the above improvements as I have in the past.

REPUBLICAN—George W. Spangler, 104 Division Street, Warren. Age: 46. Education: High School and Lineman School. Occupation: Electric trouble and serviceman for Penelec Co. Training & Experience: Contacting and serving the public everyday.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? My first responsibility is to serve the people of the 5th Ward, which I feel have been neglected. I would also like to see more action on low cost housing for our senior citizens. I am in full support of the small businessmen who are not getting the cooperation which they are entitled to, such as trying to eliminate parking facilities on Pennsylvania Avenue. The most pressing issues are low cost housing, rush hour traffic and parking, and if elected, I will cooperate and do what I feel would be the best for the public.

Sixth Ward: REPUBLICAN—Anthony F. Tomassoni, (Unopposed), 23 S. South St.

Seventh Ward: REPUBLICAN—Elbert H. Miller, 201 Oneida Ave., Warren. Age: 61. Education: Subsequent to High School: Evening classes, Business Adm. Penn State Ext. Univ. Practical Electricity, evening classes, Penn State Ext. Univ. Public Speaking, evening classes, Penn State Ext. Univ. Completed full course Higher Accountancy & Federal Taxes, La Salle Ext. Univ. Occupation: Accountant, District Property Records Representative, Penelec. Training & Experience: Over 30 years experience in costs, valuations, purchasing, auditing and Federal Income Taxes.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? Good government in the interest of the general public is a pressing local issue. I believe that Zoning, Urban Renewal, Local Taxes and Traffic problems are issues of current concern. I would earnestly strive for definite and immediate action on these issues so that they might be resolved in the best interests of all concerned.

REPUBLICAN—Alan H. Buerkle, 213 Onondaga ave., Warren Age: 44. Education: B.S.M.E. Purdue University. Occupation: Supervisor of Industrial Engineering, Wire Weld Plant, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. Training & Experience: I have had no particular training or experience relevant to this office, however, I was President of the Seneca School Parent-Teacher Unit at the time of the school expansion project. Through my interest in this project I became aware of areas of concern in this ward. Also, as a life-long resident of the community, I am familiar with the borough and with many of the people I would be dealing with.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? In my opinion the most pressing issues are streets (including the Warren By-Pass), zoning, and long-range planning. Unfortunately, I do not come to you with a magic formula with which to solve all of the problems coming before the Borough Council. I could propose to do only what many others have done—study the issues thoroughly and work diligently to come to the best possible solution for the greatest number of people.

REPUBLICAN—Richard F. Marchione, 121 Main Street, (Failed to Reply)

Eighth Ward: REPUBLICAN—D. Hugh Siggins, 12 Conewango Ave., Warren. Age: 33. Education: B.S. Chemical Engineering University of Maryland, Occupation: Production Control Supervisor, Loranger Plastics Corp. Training & Experience: My background in engineering has helped me to think through a problem in a logical manner. My current vocation develops my awareness to the need of long range planning.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? The most pressing local issues are—the modernization and redevelopment of our downtown area. The improvement of our street and highway system to facilitate our local traffic and the influx of visitors to our recreational areas. To enforce the laws concerning speed limits within the borough for the protection of our children.

REPUBLICAN—H. Kent Petersen, 112 Buchanan st., Warren. Age: 38. Incumbent. Education: High School graduate, Occupation: Bookkeeper, Oneida Lumber Co., Training & Experience: Seventeen months as Borough Councilman on Parks and Playground Committee.

What do you consider the most pressing local issues and what do you propose to do to solve them? I think that our most pressing local issue is the Warren By-Pass. I firmly believe that the entire three-stage plan is wrong and will hinder rather than help our traffic problem inasmuch as the so-called By Pass will be going right through the main part of Warren rather than by-passing the town. Since this is mainly in the hands of the State, there seems to be little that I, as a councilman, can do except make my views known and use my power of vote.

DEMOCRAT—William T. Prendergast, 203 Lexington Ave., Warren.

Ninth Ward—REPUBLICAN—Ralph L. Barney, 605 Lincoln ave., Warren. (unopposed)

Tenth Ward—REPUBLICAN—Dr. Lawrence Krespan, 109 Alexander st., Warren. (unopposed)

Mead Township

Supervisor—Vote for One

REPUBLICAN, Gerald F. Dorrión, Tiona, Penna. Incumbent, Education: High School. Occupation: Township Supervisor, Training & Experience: Have served for the past nine years on the Mead Township Board of Supervisors, as Chairman of the Board and also as Roadmaster. During these past nine years I have attended numerous County Zoning and Planning meetings, have helped institute the construction of a new Township Municipal Building, placed street lights on all Township Intersections, the paving of about 5 miles of Township roads, and the purchase of several pieces of equipment for the maintenance of the roads and streets, namely a new truck, snow plow and a grader and hi-lift. All of these necessary items for the improvement of the Township Roads have been accomplished in the past nine years while serving on the present Board of Supervisors, without any increase in property taxes for Township purposes.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,
FOR SATURDAY, MAY 17, 1969

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Those of you who begin the day early and in an orderly fashion will place an extra feather in your cap. The late starter may have heavier treading. Generally friendly influences.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Good and efficient efforts will bring much in the way of accomplishment now. Shape your endeavor to meet just demands.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Day should be generally good but, without personal initiative, you could bog down. Keep facts separated from fancy and walk on solid foundation. Maintain a strong spirit.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Your intuition may need sharpening up now. Remain true to your Sign's dignity, sensitivity (NOT overstressed) and understanding. Distinguish between whole-some fun and false pleasure.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Get the "disagreeable" tasks finished as early as possible, then do whatever you personally wish. But in all, gravitate to the intelligently sensible. Don't go to extremes.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—New offerings may attract you, but do not give up old projects of value. In those fields in which you are trained and have a liking for, you may well speed ahead now. Avoid foolish chance-taking.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—You may feel disturbed by some situation, but do not become discouraged. Examine, contemplate, but press on, in your best manner—and with confidence; a few choice plums for so doing.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Excellent prospects for general interests, and your special desires—if they are within the realm of practicability. But do not give up those idealistic plans you believe have merit.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Be cautious in expansion, promotional efforts; mostly do not force any opinion that may boom-erang. The patient, work-it-out-with-all-concerned plan will bring better returns—sooner.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—There's opportunity now to gain new laurels through actually WAITING — patiently, but not obviously, of course. Like the cat who sits silently by his food dish: Who can refuse?

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Honor and esteem may be attained through continued effort and good humor—but without over-conservative investments.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—There may be something about your job that causes worry or anxiety. Try not to yield to such stresses. Take obstacles in stride and just do the best you can.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately stable and high-minded; have balance, good judgment and tremendous inner strength. You wish things to be tidy, abhor unclean surroundings, habits. For your reforms and revisions, study all factors thoroughly, know how far to go in a given time; thus do not defeat good projects by striking out for too much too soon. You delight in stimulating conversation, music, drama; could take up art or entertaining as a side line. Never feeble in effort, you may have to curtail ambitions sometimes to conserve strength for future endeavors. Birthdate of: Edward Jenner, physician (discoverer of vaccination).

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DAMAGED ARTERIES

One in six persons dying as a result of an auto accident has a ruptured aorta. The victim sustains a crushing chest injury involving this main artery that carries blood from the heart to the rest of the body. Death occurs immediately if the injury produces a large hole in the vessel. This, however, does not always happen.

The aortic wall is thick and composed of three distinct layers. A small tear on the inside of the vessel may allow blood to escape between layers. The artery balloons out (aneurysm) slowly and several hours may elapse before the wall ruptures.

Diagnosis is not difficult and the victim's life might be saved if he gets to a hospital or clinic where the facilities and equipment for chest and vascular surgery are available. The damaged aorta must be reconstructed and in many instances a plastic graft is needed.

Injuries of the extremities may also involve the blood vessels. When main arteries are damaged, gangrene and infection may ensue. An exploratory operation usually is advised when the extremity is pale and cool and there is loss of sensation. The lack of a pulse in the wrist or ankle may also mean that the circulation is cut off. An arterial graft may save the limb provided the procedure is done within 6 hours. The large vessel that has been severed with a knife or penetrating object is sewn together usually with good results.

In severe limb damage, the surgeon must decide whether to amputate or try to rejoin all the parts. Often, amputation followed by the use of a well-fitting prosthesis is best. Most surgeons try to save the limb when they believe the final result will be a serviceable extremity. There are instances in which a totally separated limb was reattached via careful surgical technic. But in the majority, the end result is all for naught when the extremity cannot be moved because the nerves failed to regenerate.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TUBERCULAR EYELID

A reader writes: Can tuberculosis affect the eyelids?

REPLY

Yes, but this form of tuberculosis is rare in the United States.

Today's Health Hint—

CHILDREN CAN REJECT VIOLENCE

Are children today really victims of society?
Do many of them simply reflect the violence, anger, and frustration they see on television or witness in the home?

Not necessarily. Thousands of families are finding that children can just as easily reflect the love, peace, and satisfaction of their creator, God . . . if given the chance.

How? Listen this Sunday to a program entitled "Helping Children to Reject Violence."

It is part of the Christian Science Radio Series

By Rev. Norman A. Smith
Assistant Pastor of St. Joseph's Church

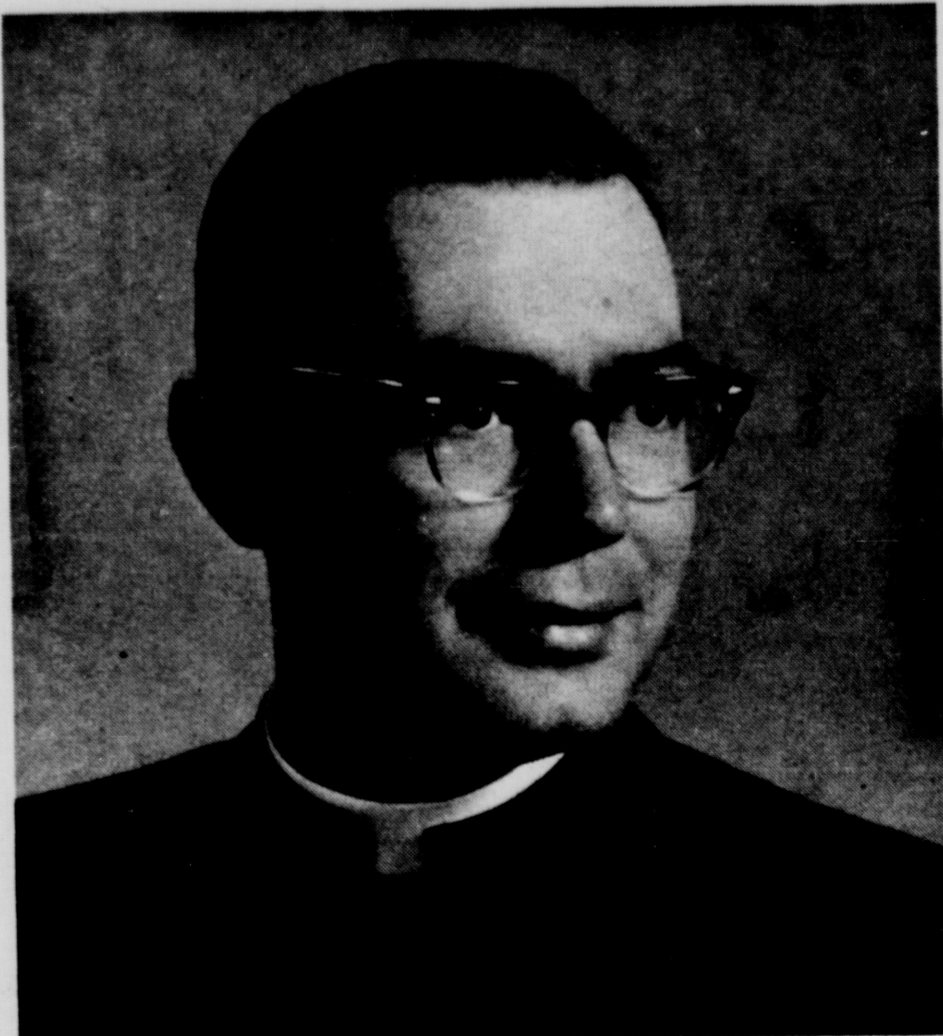

We must not think of our religion in a too individualistic way. Our Lord made it clear that love of our brothers is deeply . . . intimately . . . part . . . of love of God. We reach out to God through giving of ourselves . . . our time, our substance, our energy . . . to others. This is how we grow toward Love. . . this is how we make ourselves fit to live the Life of Love in the community of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit of the world to come.

And so, then, there is hardly any need to emphasize that the central virtue of Christian life is charity. Our practice may fall lamentably short of what we profess, of course, but the common instinct among Christians and others is sound: giving of one's self to others is regarded as the mark of the truly spiritual man.

In forming our spiritual life we must think deeply on charity and this, not once or twice in passing, but over and over again. And it may help to start with this working definition: Charity is love of God expressed in, and nourished by, love of neighbor. Note how that is put. Really, there is only one commandment. . . "Love God". In the present order of things, however, love of God means, in practice, love of our fellows. We can even say that Christ is not, indeed cannot be, reached except through his brothers. Our blessed Lord insisted on this over and over again: "Whatever you do to one of these my least brethren, you do to me." He identified himself with us so closely that he considered service—or injury — done to another, as done to himself. When he spoke of the Last Judgment and drew a picture of the saved and the lost, it was dark and terrifying in its simplicity: those who served God and their brothers on one side; those who did not on the other.

It comes to this then: If religion is our encounter with the God who calls, that call comes to us and is made concrete in our neighbor's need. Conversely, our response travels back that same road; we reach out and touch the hand of God in pouring the oil and wine of compassion on our wounded brothers. We are, I suppose, quite familiar with the parable of the Good Samaritan from which that figure of speech is taken. What is often forgotten is the question that prompted the parable. Our Lord was asked in effect, "What is religion, in its last analysis?" "Master, what is the great commandment of the Lord?" Our Lord answers this with his parable; and says to us: "Go and do also in like manner."

Give One's Self

This much, then, is clear and beyond doubt: Charity is at the root of Christian things. If we refuse to serve God in our brothers, not only are we not spiritual, we may even lose our souls in hell. At first sight, it might seem that here is the ultimate basis for the central place of charity in Christian things: Christ, our Lord, proclaimed love as his Commandment—the special and distinctive mark of his people. That, it would seem, is enough. Why should we go any further?

But the love of Christians has even deeper roots—it reaches into the inner life of God in the heart of the Trinity. The self-giving we are called to manifest and to give to one another in Christ is an earthly radiance and an echo of that love that is in the Trinity, that indeed, constitutes the common life of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. In other words: the doctrine of the Trinity is the foundation of Charity.

The Father knows himself perfectly and his Idea of Himself is so adequate that it contains everything of the Thinker. In the most literal way possible, he puts into it all that he has . . . all that he is so that his Idea of Himself is another Person which Sacred Scripture calls the Son or the Word; the personified Idea of God. Between Father and Son, there arises a "breathing forth" of love . . . a mutual Love so exhaustive . . . so total . . . that it too is a Person—the Holy Spirit, the mutual love of Father and Son in Person. The important thing to note here is this: the inner life of God is community life. He is Community. Saint John puts it more simply: "God is Love."

The whole meaning of Christianity is this then: human beings are drawn into the family life of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit through Christ, the Son of the family. It is precisely that that makes us Christians. We are taken up into the torrent of knowledge and love of the Three; we are carried over into the blazing furnace of the love of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. And this is Christianity. Not part of Christianity, or one of the doctrines of any faith, but Christianity itself in its final and ultimate analysis. Our sharing in the inner life of God through Christ is what makes us Christians. We give ourselves in love to others, this is loving God, and in loving God we become a part of His community, His Love, Himself.

Foresters Get Archaeology Study Report

A report on archaeological explorations, done over the past two summers on an ancient Indian earthworks near Russell City under permit from the U. S. Forest Service, was received recently according to Ralph Freeman, Forest Supervisor of the Allegheny National Forest. The detailed report was prepared by the local Kinzua Chapter 18 of the Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology headed by Stan Lantz of Warren.

The Project Study area is an egg-shaped earth formation 180 feet wide and 225 feet long, surrounded by a shallow ditch. Archaeologists believe this area was once used as an Indian fort. Findings indicate the fort had a high log stockade around the outside to provide protection for its occupants. The earthwork is thought to have been used in the late 1300's or early 1400's, possibly by a group known as the Monongahela people. Like similar sites elsewhere in Pennsylvania and New York, it lies on a level summit of a long egg-shaped hill with deep narrow valleys on three sides. Water was available from a nearby stream or spring. The forts may have been used as bases for early Indian hunting parties hunting the large flocks of passenger pigeons once very abundant in this area.

Under the direction of the Carnegie Museum and with the cooperation of other state historians and scientific institutions, local amateur archaeologists carefully mapped and photographed the fort. Next a system of ten foot squares were laid out along a north-south and east-west line forming a cross near the center of the earthwork. The soil was carefully removed and screened from each of these squares. Measurements were taken and photographs recorded as the work progressed.

As excavations continued shallow holes in the ground

filled with charcoal, animal and bird bone fragments, and broken pottery were uncovered providing evidence of early cooking fires. Numerous stone tools and projectile points were also uncovered. An unexpected discovery was that of the possible outline of post holes suggesting two small round or slightly oval bark houses. Also uncovered were several charred kernels of corn and a new type of pottery.

After the field work was completed the results of this work and similar work done in another earthwork on private land nearby were published and copies sent to several museums, colleges, and local historical societies. It will be some time before professional archaeologists can examine this report, field records and artifacts before any definite conclusions can be reached. Once this has been done, the artifacts uncovered during the work will be turned over to a local museum for permanent display.

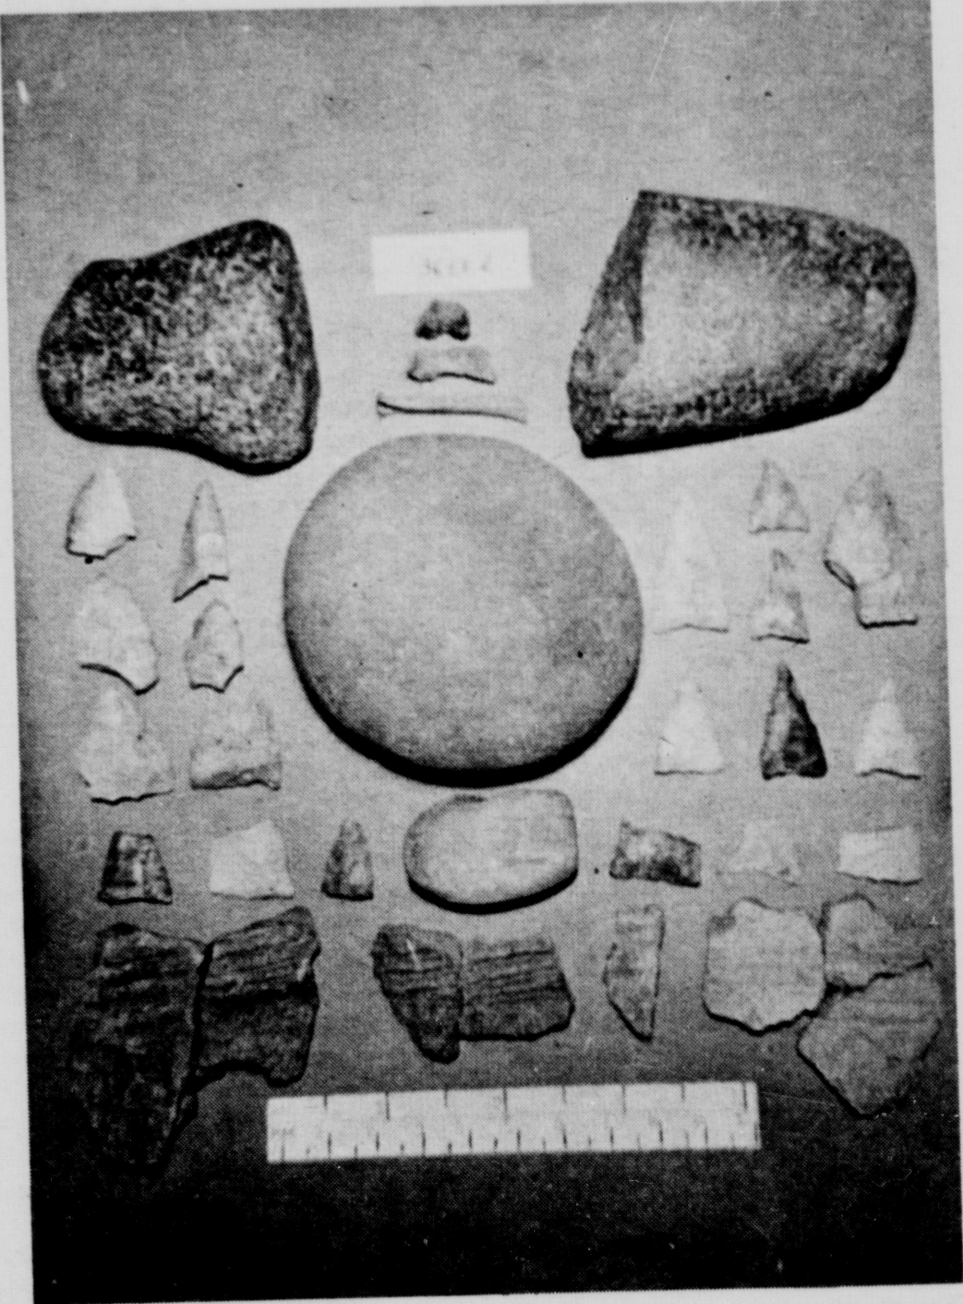

Freeman stated that this is the first permit issued on the Allegheny National Forest under the American Antiquities Act of June 8, 1906. The Antiquities Act is quite protective in nature. It says in effect that objects of antiquity, including fossils and Indian artifacts can only be excavated on federal lands by professional archaeologists, historians, scientists, or by qualified persons sponsored by scientific institutions which have a permit for such work from the U. S. Forest Service. Violations under the act can result in severe penalties, said Freeman.

The Forest Service welcomes the cooperation of local individuals, archaeologists, and local institutions in locating and classifying early Indian and historic sites and developing plans for their investigation and protection. After they have been properly investigated by scientific personnel, many sites can be developed and managed for public use and enjoyment, adding yet another place of interest to a growing number of scenic and historical spots popular among tourists on the Allegheny National Forest.

Warren Hosts State Archaeology Meeting

Dinner speaker at today's sessions of the 40th annual meeting of the Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology, at the K of C building, is Dr. William A. Ritchie, state archaeologist for the State of New York.

One of America's most eminent archaeologists and anthropologists, Dr. Ritchie is author of many important books. His latest book just published already into a second printing, is entitled: "Archaeology of New York State."

Dr. Ritchie's subject this evening is: "Recent Advances in the Archaeology of the Northeast." It will be illustrated with color slides. He will include reference to newer views of Iroquois origins, recent contributions to Paleo-Indian data, some reference to Dr. Ritchie's late work last summer in Newfoundland.

William A. Ritchie has conducted field trips to more than 100 major archaeological sites in eastern United States and Canada. He has written more than 150 articles on the archaeology and paleopathology of Indians of the Northeast.

He is State archaeologist for the New York State Museum and Science Service. He received his B. S. and M. S. degrees in archaeology from the University of Rochester and his Ph. D. in anthropology from Columbia University. Ritchie also holds an honorary Sc. D. degree from Waynesburg College. He is a Fellow of the American Anthropological Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and New York State Archaeological Association. He lives in Delmar, N. Y.

At 10:35 a.m. today Dr. Don W. Dragoo, curator, Section of Man, Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, will discuss: "The Relationship of Iroquoian and Monongahela Cultures in the Upper Ohio Valley," illustrated by color slides, covering rich archaeological discoveries in the Kinzua Valley and other areas along the Allegheny.

Dr. Dragoo is well known in the Warren area. He has given a number of public addresses in Warren, and has many friends and admirers among the active area archaeologists of Kinzua Chapter 18, Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology, who are hosts for the meeting.

An attractive personality, Dragoo imparts his own enthusiasm for archaeology and pre-history to all who become associated with him, both professional and non-professional archaeologists.

Among posts held previous to his present one, Dr. Dragoo has been associate professor of anthropology at University of Pittsburgh, visiting lecturer at Duquesne University and teaching associate in anthropology at Indiana University. He holds degrees of Bachelor of arts, master of arts, and doctor of philosophy from Indiana University. He also studied at University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

Dragoo has been a member of many important archaeological expeditions, in this country and abroad. They include Angel Site, Vanderburgh Co. Ind., and American Foundation Arabian Expedition of Johns Hopkins University in excavations in Southern Arabia of ruined cities. He was also archaeologist with Upper Ohio Valley Archaeological Survey of Carnegie Museum 1952-1956, including Allegheny Valley.

Dragoo served with the U. S. Navy in World War II, including 16 months overseas in the Pacific.

Local archaeologists who will give a two-part slide talk on "Archaeology of the Upper Allegheny Valley," are Stanley W. Lantz, on the Carnegie Museum staff, with Dr. Dragoo, and John M. Zavinski, president of Kinzua Chapter 18, Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology.

For more than quarter of a century Stanley Lantz has engaged in significant archaeological excavations in northwestern Pennsylvania, in recent years in the Kinzua Valley. He first became widely known for his excavation of rock shelters, which trace the life of man back two to three thousand years. Lantz' discoveries have opened up vast new pages in the pre-history of this region, and are of major significance. For many years Lantz has been in wide demand as a speaker throughout the northeast.

John M. Zavinski has been an ardent digger into the past for many years, and has actively participated in excavations of many important sites in this region. He has ably piloted the Kinzua Chapter 18, Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology, during many months, and his labors are crowned by the chapter's hosting the annual meeting of the state association this week end.

Another speaker of distinction is Betty J. Broyles, of the West Virginia Geological Survey, Morgantown, W. Va., who discusses at 11:30 a.m. today "The St. Albans Site."

Dr. Leslie L. Delaney, assistant professor of history, Kings College, Wilkes-Barre, gives the first afternoon talk "A Preliminary Report on the Dumdee Site of Luzerne County, Pennsylvania."

Dr. John L. Cotter, chief of archaeological research, Philadelphia Service Center, National Park Service, Northeast Region of Pa., talks at 3:30 p. m. on "Preparation and Future for Historical Archaeology."

Exhibits will be displayed in the lobby of the K of C Building. Display chairman is Lynn Beach.

DR. JOHN L. COTTER

Leading Anthropologist to Speak

Dr. John L. Cotter, chief of Archaeological Research, Philadelphia Service Center, National Region of Pennsylvania, a leading anthropologist with a long and distinguished career in archaeology, will be an afternoon speaker at today's sessions of the Society for Pennsylvania Archaeology here.

Dr. Cotter is a Westerner, a native of Denver, Colorado, who has made important contributions to archaeology during the past 35 years. His fields of special interest have been early man in North America, pre-history of Eastern U. S. A., and the investigation and conservation of historical sites in the Americas.

He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in anthropology from the University of Denver, and in 1959 the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in anthropology was conferred upon him by the University of Pennsylvania.

He has been a member of many field expeditions in archaeology with the Denver Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution, Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, and the Andean Institute.

From 1939 to 1940 Cotter served as state supervisor for the Archaeological Survey of Kentucky. Since 1940 he has been a career employee with the National Park Service at Philadelphia headquarters.

His career was interrupted by service in the U. S. Army, during which he was with the 90th Div., 357th Infantry Regiment in the Normandy Invasion, in 1944; He was wounded, later served in Paris and London in Army educational work with the Armed Forces Institute, European Theater, U. S. Army until 1946. He was awarded the Combat Infantryman badge and the Purple Heart.

Cotter is a fellow of the American Association for Advancement of Science and fellow of the American Anthropological Association. He is a member of more than fifteen important historical archaeological and anthropological societies and is president and editor of the Society for Historical Archaeology.

Dr. Cotter has served on the faculties of University of Pennsylvania graduate school of Arts and Sciences, Temple University, department of Anthropology, and other institutions.

He is author of many articles on American Archaeology, and is at present preparing a Handbook for Historical Archaeology, soon to be published.

EAST FOREST NAMES KING AND QUEEN

The Junior Class of East Forest High School had its annual Prom to Dawn activities on May 9th and honored Bill Ruhlman and Shirley Shick as King and Queen of the activities.

Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Shick of Marienville, was active during her senior year being a member of the yearbook staff, band and majorettes, drama club, cheer-leading advisor, girls basketball team, chorus, and was also the recipient of the 1969 DAR award. Her out-of-school activities included membership in the Girl Scouts and Rainbow Girls.

Bill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruhlman of Marienville, RD, was the vice president of the senior class and was active in both volleyball and gymnastics.

The junior class under the direction of Mr. Gary Long had elaborate decorations relating to their theme, Three Coins In A Fountain.

The Prom activities included dancing from 9:00 until midnight to the music of the Windsors. The Marienville Boosters Club provided a luncheon from midnight until 1:00, after which time the juniors and seniors saw the movies Three Coins In A Fountain and Jerry Lewis in Who's Minding the Store.

The 1969 Prom to Dawn activities came to a close at about 5 a.m. with a breakfast being served by the parents of the members of the junior class.
